JOINT SESSION

Pursuant to resolutions heretofore adopted, the Sergeant-at-Arms announces the approach of the Senate and that Body, preceded by its officers, comes into the Hall of the House and are assigned seats, President Barnhardt at the right of Mr. Speaker Hewlett, the purpose of the Joint Session being to hear the biennial message of His Excellency, Governor Luther H. Hodges.

Representative Doughton presents Governor Hodges to President Barnhardt and Mr. Speaker Hewlett; Governor Hodges is then presented to the Joint Assembly by President Barnhardt.

His Excellency, Governor Hodges, makes the following address to the Joint Session:

BIENNIAL MESSAGE
OF
GOVERNOR LUTHER H. HODGES
TO THE
NORTH CAROLINA GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the General Assembly of North Carolina:

May I express my personal welcome and cordial best wishes to each of you.

From every part of our beloved North Carolina you have come, chosen by the people to represent them. The legislative responsibilities vested in you by the people are great, and the opportunities available to you to chart a sound and enduring course for the present and future progress of our State are without limit.

I gratefully acknowledge the privilege and honor that is mine as Governor in addressing this General Assembly today. This is the third consecutive occasion, upon the convening of a regular legislative session, that I have had this opportunity. I am also mindful of the fact that this is the last time that I shall have the duty and honor of presenting a biennial message to the General Assembly of North Carolina.

Many of the problems and issues which will press forward for your attention in the days ahead are not new but recurring ones. Revenues and appropriations, for example, are major issues at each biennial session. I propose to deal with these matters in detail in my budget message next Monday.

Other major questions which will come before you for determination arise primarily because of the normal growth and change in our economy and in the life of our State and Nation. Our very best efforts are required merely to meet the challenge of the unfolding present. And certainly our challenge as we face the future is how we can provide North Carolina with better public schools and colleges, more adequate health and welfare services, more roads and highways, a diversified agriculture and industry, a greatly improved system of courts, continued improvement in the organization and operation of state government, improved tax laws, and other laws to enable our people to take full advantage of their opportunities in the growing years ahead.

We are particularly fortunate that the 1957 Session of the General Assembly authorized appointment of special study commissions and committees to give intensive, careful thought to some of our most pressing problems, and to report to this Session.

The able and dedicated citizens who served on these study commissions gave generously of their time and energies, and many of them are members of this General Assembly or have served in previous legislative sessions. I make this observation merely to emphasize that these studies and recommendations come to you from capable and devoted citizens. Their reports are worthy of your serious consideration. All of us appreciate the time and effort given by these commission members and I am confident their studies will be of great assistance to you in your own deliberations.

THE STATE'S ECONOMY—AGRICULTURE AND INDUSTRY

Since the day more than four years ago that the duties of this office were placed upon me, I have devoted much time and travel to the economic problems of our State. Further diversification and development in agriculture and industry have been among the major objectives of this Administration. I firmly believe that we can and should carry out a well-conceived program to improve the economic opportunities available to our people, and to increase their per capita income, which means just plain "better living"!

In my message to the 1957 General Assembly I said that we must develop more industry, both manufacturing and agricultural, and that we must remove insofar as possible whatever roadblocks now exist to our further industrial development.

Certain changes made in the tax laws by the 1957 General Assembly removed one of the roadblocks to our industrial progress. Since then, we have been able to carry the message far and wide that North Carolina has a reasonable and fair method of taxing business income earned in this State. The temporary loss in corporate tax revenues has been less than one-half of the $14,000,000 which was estimated two years ago. It is now evident, even after this short time, that the outlook for future revenues gained from industry and agricultural processing locating or expanding in our State will be many times our limited and temporary decreases.

During the calendar year 1957 our State experienced its greatest annual industrial growth up to that time, with a total for new and expanded plants in excess of $191,000,000. The 1957 record has now been shattered by a new high in accomplishment for the year 1958 during which a total of $253,000,000 was committed to new plants and expansions.

These figures are more meaningful when we realize that the new plants and expansions in 1958 alone are expected to furnish employment for more than 21,750 people, with an annual payroll of at least $72,633,000. Furthermore, this economic progress for North Carolina was achieved largely during a period of economic recession, at a time when other less fortunate areas of our Nation were experiencing pronounced economic distress.

Let me mention a significant and impressive comparison. While the Nation as a whole invested 17.4% less in new plants and expansions during 1958, North Carolina had an increase of 32.5%. This means our State was 50% better than the national average!

I do not mean to imply at all that the good industrial progress we have enjoyed during the past two years is attributable solely to a change in our tax laws. The important factor, in my opinion, is the attitude and spirit of our people and our State. This is revealed in the energy and enthusiasm of countless citizens—businessmen, farmers, professional people and others—throughout North Carolina who have joined hand-in-hand in this great effort to make our State a better place in which to live; it is exemplified by the action of the Legislature in setting tax policy; and it is demonstrated by officials and employees of the executive branch who have labored long hours in this great endeavor.

I want to pay tribute to the agencies of State Government, to the more than one hundred local development groups, both old and new, and to our many fine Chambers of Commerce for their effective cooperation in achieving these goals.

The direct impact of agriculture—and indeed one agricultural crop—on the income of our State is graphically revealed by what happened in 1957. The decrease in tobacco farm income alone during 1957, over the previous year, amounted to $137,313,000, or a drop of 27.1%. This serious drop was due to several factors, including acreage reductions, and adverse weather conditions. Had our tobacco farm income held its own during that year, we would have had $1,352 in per capita income, with a national ranking of 44th. Instead, because of the farm income loss in 1957, our per capita income was only $1,317 and our standing dropped from 44th to 45th in the Nation.

Happily, 1958 was, by comparison, a banner year in agricultural prices and production, and according to present estimates our farm income in 1958 was at least 8% over 1957. This encouraging development in our farm income, together with new industrial payrolls of more than $72,000,000, including exciting growth in food processing, certainly adds up to a good improvement in our overall economy.

Last spring I appointed a Governor's Farm Advisory Committee which has been most helpful in providing a better understanding of some of the State and national problems we face on our farms. This Committee has made many helpful suggestions and I want to pay warm tribute to all its members.

CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT OF OUR RESOURCES

Our State is favored with many natural resources. Their full significance to our present and our future well-being is not, I fear, generally appreciated.

Our forests comprise one of our most precious resources and hold promise of greater economic benefit to our people. Having constantly emphasized this potential, I am encouraged with the progress we are beginning to make. For example, in 1954, 17,000,000 seedlings were distributed throughout the State from the State Forest Tree Nurseries. In 1958, there were 84,000,000 made available to landowners in North Carolina.

In 1958, a new geological map of the State was issued, which will greatly assist our citizens in the exploration and development of mineral resources. This was the first complete map of this type issued since 1875.

Our future industrial and agricultural progress is dependent upon an adequate supply of water. Although North Carolina has an annual rainfall considerably higher than the national average, the demands for water as our population increases have substantially reduced our margin of safety. We should not forget the recent periods of drought when many cities and towns throughout the State were in serious trouble due to a lack of adequate water reserves.

The Reorganization Commission which was appointed following the 1957 legislative session has given further careful study to this problem, and in a report already made available to each of you, it is recommended that a Department of Water Resources be created, to which could be transferred the responsibilities scattered among the various state agencies now involved in water resource activities. The report further recommends that as part of this new agency, the State Stream Sanitation Committee be continued, until July 1, 1965, to complete its project on classification of streams. I heartily endorse the recommendations contained in the report and urge their adoption.

The Outer Banks of North Carolina form a protective barrier for our sounds and inland cities and counties against a ravaging ocean. If present rates of deterioration of the Outer Banks continue, they will be destroyed in a few short years. Time will not permit a full discussion of the problem but I want to say with great earnestness that the State must meet this growing problem with vision, courage and determination. A sensible program must be begun and continued, with the aid of Federal agencies, to stabilize our inlets and dunes and to restore the Banks as vital dikes for the protection of our coastal area. The State, with local cooperation, must take the lead and urge your serious attention to the problem. I shall have specific recommendations in my budget message.

PUBLIC EDUCATION AND SCHOOL FINANCE

We all recognize that education is one of the most important functions of government. We allocate more of our taxes to the support of education than to all other governmental activities combined. For the current biennium, 76% of total General Fund appropriations is for education, and 67% of the General Fund is for public schools alone.

North Carolina has in the past, considering our resources, made a good effort in support of our public schools. Notwithstanding our effort, however, we still rank near the bottom in per pupil expenditure for education, and our ranking in teachers' salaries continues to be comparatively low, although our national rank in teacher pay is substantially better than our national income rank.

The 1957 General Assembly expressly recognized that we should have a "more thorough understanding of the problems involved in financing public education in this State." Accordingly, the General Assembly authorized appointment of a committee for the study of public school finance. The report of that committee has already been made public, and each of you has a copy.

A major recommendation from this committee is an incentive plan to encourage local supplementary support for the public schools. The committee found that several of the administrative school units in the State have voted local taxes with which to supplement State appropriations, yet a majority furnish no supplement. The present plan of school support in North Carolina contemplates that the State shall furnish the basic support for the operation of the nine-months' school term, with this basic support being supplemented at the local level. Our present and long-standing approach on public school finance—basic State support with local effort to supplement—is, in my judgment, sound.

However, to enable us better to meet our school needs, it is proposed that the State establish an incentive fund, which would be distributed to the counties which make matching contributions in accordance with their economic ability. This would be entirely voluntary. The formula governing the distribution of the incentive fund would take into account the number of pupils and the taxable resources in the county.

I, for one, do not desire to see the State "unload" the burden of public school financing on the counties. The report of the Committee on the Study of Public School Finance does not make any such recommendation.

We need to do more for public education in North Carolina, both in the total number of dollars we provide and in the comparative effort that we put forth. Our future economic growth and strength will depend on how well we do in our educational efforts at all levels.

The people of North Carolina want to improve our public schools and want to see them made more modern and effective with more attention being given to fundamental learning. Our people will pay for good schools if given the opportunity. There is a popular interest in an improved and more serious curriculum, as well as improved teaching. I am happy to report excellent progress on a major curriculum study which has been underway for several months.

I endorse the principle implicit in the incentive plan proposed by the School Finance Study Committee, and I urge that you enact suitable legislation to give effect to this approach. In my opinion, such legislation will mean much to the future of our public schools. In my later message to you on the State budget, I shall submit for your consideration specific dollar amounts recommended for inclusion in the State's appropriations for the coming biennium.

HIGHER EDUCATION

Enrollments in our state-supported institutions of higher education continue to increase rapidly. In the fall of 1958, a total of 29,500 full-time students were enrolled in our nine state-supported colleges and in the three branches of the University. By the middle 1960's, we shall have an enrollment of about 37,000, and by 1969 an enrollment of 50,000 or more.

Notwithstanding these prospective increases in numbers, North Carolina still ranks in a regrettably low position in the Nation in the ratio of college enrollment. For the Nation as a whole, 31% of the college-age group attends college. In North Carolina, only 17% of this group is enrolled in college.

We should not, of course, attempt to enroll more college students just to attain a more favorable statistical position. Nor should we maintain colleges for students who want to go to college simply because "it is the thing to do." And we should be sure that our colleges are offering opportunities for a genuine higher education.

This leads us to the subject of admission standards for our state-supported institutions of higher education. I do not suggest any blind and unreasoned adherence to an admission test as a sole criterion to judge admission to an institution of higher education. Rather, admission tests should constitute a useful tool. They should provide an objective appraisal, both of our students and of our high schools from which they graduate, and proper tests in colleges will go a long way toward raising the standards in our high schools.

You probably know that since the fall term of 1957 pre-admission tests have been used as a criterion for admission of students to the Consolidated University. I compliment our University leadership for this step and I would like to see every state-supported institution of higher education announce that, effective no later than the fall term of 1961, pre-admission tests will be required of all applicants for purposes of guidance and measurement of aptitudes and qualifications of the student. I hope the General Assembly will seriously interest itself in this matter.

In the ten-year period 1947-1957, appropriations by the General Assembly of North Carolina for capital improvements in our state-supported institutions of higher education amounted to $105,000,000. In this decade, enrollments in these institutions increased 16% from 24,300 in 1947 to 28,400 in 1957. Recently the Board of Higher Education completed a study of probable capital needs for our colleges for the ten-year period 1959 through 1969, a decade in which enrollments are expected to increase 66%, from about 30,000 to about 50,000. The Board has concluded that the reasonable needs of our institutions during the next ten-year period can be met with a substantially less capital expenditure than was appropriated for the 1947-1957 decade. The capital improvements approach suggested by the Board, and for the most part approved by the institutions, involves renovation and alteration of present facilities, a moderate increase in instructional and dormitory facilities, an increased use of present space, an increased use of facilities in the summer months, and provision for the expansion of community colleges. In my budget message, I shall have specific recommendations for a capital improvement program for our higher education institutions.

During the past two years we have had notable advances in the important field of community colleges. Colleges in Asheville, Charlotte and Wilmington are now fully qualified under the Community College Act of 1957, and the state appropriations for capital improvements at these colleges have already been more than matched by bond issues approved in local elections.

The present accomplishments of our various institutions of higher education are good and commendable. Our potentials for future achievement are unlimited. The challenge that confronts our State is immense, and we will need a continued full measure of dedication to higher education on the part of the trustees, the officers, the faculties and students of each separate institution to meet the great task that lies ahead.

We will also need the vital contribution of a vigorous and fearless Board of Higher Education which can assist us in charting that course which will give to the State a program of higher education which is strong in all parts, and which in its total result gives to North Carolina the best of which our State is capable, with a minimum of overlapping programs and with the least possible waste of public funds.

As you are aware, a very satisfactory agreement has been reached with respect to certain differences between the University Trustees and the Board of Higher Education, and recommended changes in present statutes, which I endorse, are supported by the Presidents and governing boards of other state institutions of higher learning and by the Board of Higher Education.

WELFARE AND HEALTH

We must always remember the obligation of government to provide assistance for those who cannot assist themselves. Many of our citizens, for reasons beyond their control, must rely on the help given to them under our welfare program. These citizens include those who are too old, too young, too disabled, or too ill to work, and who are without private means of financial support.

North Carolina has continued to maintain a good record in the administration of its public welfare program, its public health program, and its hospital program. Our welfare activities, insofar as possible, are designed to help individuals attain a position of self-support. In some instances, the welfare officials are hampered by a lack of proper laws in developing policies that are needed to improve administration. I urge your careful consideration of proposals which will be presented to you, including such matters as strengthening our support laws and making possible better control over welfare payments, especially those dealing with illegitimate children.

Outstanding results have been achieved during the past two years in the control and prevention of polio epidemics. In 1957, only 233 cases of polio were reported in North Carolina and in 1958 only 74 cases were reported. More than three and one-half million doses of Salk polio vaccine, made available under the federal program, have been administered to more than one million children in North Carolina, with most of these voluntary immunizations administered during the past two years. However, it is estimated that more than 20% of our children and young people through age 19 (the age group most susceptible to polio) have never received any polio vaccination.

I believe the General Assembly should consider a law providing for mandatory polio vaccination, especially for younger children.

EMPLOYMENT SECURITY

Our State for many years has maintained a soundly-operated employment security program. Our weekly benefit payments, in comparison with average weekly earnings in this State, are approximately equal to the national average. We have maintained sufficient reserve balances in our unemployment insurance fund so that tax rates have been commensurate with those in adjoining states, and at the same time our reserves have been sufficient to meet normally anticipated unemployment conditions. During 1958, unemployment was abnormally high throughout the Nation. In North Carolina alone more than two hundred thousand workers received unemployment benefits, meaning that this number was out of work one or more weeks during the year.

Many other states experienced far more drastic unemployment than did North Carolina. You will recall that several months ago there was a strong movement in Congress to enact substantial changes in the federal laws governing the unemployment insurance program. Some people even went so far as to suggest, in effect, the complete federalization of the employment security programs, with the federal government prescribing minimum benefit payments, minimum number of weeks for which benefits would be paid, and so on.

In my opinion, many such proposals were prompted by conditions in other states which were attributable in part to a less actuarially sound administration of their own state programs, and in part to a governmental philosophy with which I basically disagree.

I do not think that the employment security program should be administered from Washington. I do believe that the states should always have a sound and adequate program of unemployment insurance benefits. In my opinion, the states should take the lead in this matter and should do whatever is necessary to cope adequately with periods of prolonged unemployment such as that experienced during 1958.

I think that our own State should give consideration to statutory changes which would, under unemployment emergencies expressly described by statute, enable state officials to extend by executive action the number of weeks for which benefits would be available. I, therefore, recommend that this Session of the General Assembly approve legislation which would authorize the Governor, under emergency conditions specified by law, to extend the benefit period for an additional thirteen weeks. This would permit payment of unemployment benefits for as much as 39 weeks at the very time—and only then—when unemployment benefits would be most needed.

MINIMUM WAGE

More than 90,000 North Carolinians receive a wage of less than 75c an hour. We should have a state law requiring a minimum wage of at least 75c an hour. I could talk at great length on this matter but I think it is enough to say that employers can afford it, employees deserve it, and the State's economic progress demands it. I strongly recommend enactment of a state minimum wage law.

STATE PERSONNEL

Our many state employees, teachers, and officials continue to render devoted service, and I wish to express to all of them, on behalf of the people of this State, our sincere appreciation. It has been a distinct and enjoyable experience working with our state employees. In my Budget Message I shall have recommendations to make regarding several phases of employee relations.

NATIONAL GUARD

Just recently our North Carolina National Guard was re-organized under modern military concepts, and in keeping with new requirements set forth by the Department of Defense. I am happy to report that because of the good work of our Adjutant General and his general officers in reaching an agreement with the Pentagon, we will be able to maintain our Guard at practically the same strength as before.

HIGHWAYS

The reorganization of the State Highway Commission, which was authorized by the 1957 General Assembly and placed into effect on July 1 of that year, has already achieved in this short time outstanding results which prove the wisdom of these organizational changes. The smaller State Highway Commission has operated as a state-wide policy-making board. The responsibility for day-to-day execution and direction of the highway program has been fulfilled by an able Director and his assistants. New accounting procedures will provide an adequate system of accrual accounting which enables us to keep a closer check and control on all expenditures and costs.

Within the Highway Commission we have established a Department of Secondary Roads, and complete secondary road plans for the present biennium, for all one hundred counties, have been approved by the respective boards of county commissioners and the Highway Commission.

The Highway Commission has put into effect a new right-of-way policy which provides for independent appraisals of all properties taken for highway purposes and proper and adequate notification by certified mail to all property owners. Every effort is made to deal fairly and justly with the property owner.

The State Highway Commission has held a record total of twenty-five meetings outside the City of Raleigh in various sections of the State. It has received and carefully considered countless requests from cities, counties, groups of citizens and individuals. At least two meetings between county commissioners of each county and secondary road officials have been held, and in many instances there has been a third or fourth meeting to work out highway plans with local officials.

A few persons have claimed that our highway work has been centralized and moved away from the people. The exact opposite is the case. The Highway Commission is more responsive to all the people, and our highways and roads are now being built according to established need, without special favors to anyone, and with closer cooperation with local officials and local communities than we have had for many years.

During the period July 1, 1957 to December 31, 1958, projects totaling more than $106,000,000 have been placed under contract. North Carolina continues in the forefront in the entire Nation in progress on the interstate highway program. During this same period, approximately 1,200 miles of secondary roads have been paved and more than 1,400 miles have been improved at a total cost in excess of $24,000,000. By December, 1959, an additional 817 miles of secondary roads will be paved and 616 miles will be improved, at an additional expenditure of almost $16,000,000.

In cooperation with the Municipal Government Study Commission and with local officials, the Highway Commission has carefully studied its policies relating to urban streets and highways. Some modification of present laws which will further aid our municipalities will be submitted for your consideration.

HIGHWAY SAFETY

Since 1947 motor vehicle registrations in North Carolina have doubled. In the past year, we registered more than 1,700,000 vehicles. Larger registrations are, of course, to be anticipated in the years ahead.

Since 1930 more than 27,000 people have lost their lives in traffic accidents in North Carolina. Each year in our State more than 1,000 persons are killed in highway accidents. To this tragic loss of life, we must add the staggering toll of injured and maimed and the enormous economic loss in property damage.

Our Department of Motor Vehicles has received national acclaim for its program in highway safety. Yet, highway safety is a never-ending problem. We cannot relax in our concern, and in truth we must intensify our efforts and assure that our officials have available every reasonable and practicable method for better traffic-law enforcement.

The Department of Motor Vehicles will place before you suggestions for legislation which it feels will advance the cause of traffic safety. I urge that you give careful consideration to these proposals, and to keep in mind the great value of just one life which may be saved by improving our highway safety program.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE PRISON SYSTEM

Commendable improvements in prison administration have been achieved during the current biennium. Many of these are attributable to the legislation enacted by the 1957 Assembly vesting control of the State's prison system in an independent Prison Department. Control of its own affairs has enabled the Prison Department to achieve economies while improving the quality and effectiveness of its programs for custody, employment, and rehabilitation of prisoners.

Unlike most other states, North Carolina has responsibility at the state level for all persons receiving a prison sentence, whether for a long term or a short term. Current figures show that of approximately 11,000 prisoners in the State's prison system 7,300 or 66% are serving 6 months or less. Sixty-five per cent of the total prison population is comprised of repeaters, most of whom were convicted of drunken offenses.

As of December, 1958, there were 10,930 men and 426 women imprisoned by the State. It is estimated that the number of male prisoners will increase to 13,000 by 1965, and to 15,000 by 1970, with corresponding increases in the number of women prisoners. Faced with these increasing numbers, it is imperative that we make the maximum use of probation and parole consistent with the public safety and conducive to the rehabilitation of the offender. Rehabilitation programs of the Prison Department must be expanded and improved and new prison facilities both for lodging and work must be provided. The budget includes appropriations for these purposes.

In view of the increase in prison population that seems inescapable in spite of all that we may do to slow its rate, new legislation is urgently needed to enable the Prison Department to provide constructive employment for additional prisoners. Bills will be introduced for your consideration which will implement these recommendations. I also recommend that the work-release law, enacted in 1957, be amended so as to permit an increased flow of suitable prisoners to this proven program. I hope that your appropriate committees will give intensive study to the entire problem of prisoners and their rehabilitation.

ELECTION LAWS

The State Board of Elections has informed me that several changes in our statutes are desirable so as to improve our election procedures and to eliminate some legal questions and ambiguity. Also, the Board has suggested that the date of our primary election should be advanced from May to the last Tuesday in June. I endorse this suggestion. In addition, may I repeat with all emphasis possible the previous recommendations concerning the civilian absentee-ballot law. Because of the widespread abuses under this law, it should, in the public interest, be repealed.

THE SCHOOL PROBLEM

Over four years ago the United States Supreme Court handed down its decision in the "school segregation cases", drastically revising its previous interpretation of the Federal Constitution. North Carolina has moved with calmness to meet the great problem forced upon us by an interpretation of the Federal Constitution with which interpretation most of our citizens profoundly disagree. In reposing trust and confidence, and authority, in the people themselves at the local level, I believe our State has dealt wisely with this issue. No one has suggested a better approach than the one of local control and local responsibility. If in the future it becomes evident that a better course of action for North Carolina should be devised, I shall take appropriate steps to bring the matter before the General Assembly.

REORGANIZATION OF STATE AGENCIES

The Commission on Reorganization of State Government has submitted a total of eleven separate reports. Each report deals with some aspect of state government organization or administration, and I urge your thoughtful consideration and your action on each of these reports.

UTILITIES COMMISSION

The fourth report of the Reorganization Commission deals with the Utilities Commission. Based upon careful study and an expression of views by members of the Utilities Commission, it is recommended that the membership of this body be reduced from five to three commissioners, and that compensation and retirement benefits be improved. I endorse this proposal, and add this observation of my own. I think it will be in the interest of the State for the General Assembly to provide that the compensation and retirement benefits for the members of the Utilities Commission be equivalent to those of Superior Court judges, and this should be done irrespective of your action on the proposal to reduce the members from five to three.

I am informed that the Utilities Commission will, of its own accord, suggest for your consideration some minor and technical changes in the present statutes, and they will recommend that you authorize a study during the next biennium of the entire Utilities Law to the end that it can be revised and brought up-to-date.

STATE LEGISLATIVE BUILDING

Another report of the Reorganization Commission deals with a new legislative building. I will not attempt at this time to review the reasons supporting this suggestion. These are capably set forth in the fifth report filed by the Reorganization Commission, and I think are generally understood. We all agree that our present Capitol Building should be carefully preserved.

North Carolina, her expanding economy, and the business of her Legislature have all grown enormously since the time one hundred eighteen years ago that this building was first occupied, but the facilities provided for our General Assembly are almost exactly the same as they were in 1840. I believe a separate and suitable structure should be erected close by the Capitol Square. Specific recommendations will be given you next Monday.

STATE BOARD OF ALCOHOLIC CONTROL

The eighth report of the Reorganization Commission considers the State Board of Alcoholic Control. This Board has from its establishment consisted of a chairman and two associate members, with the chairman serving as full-time official.

The Reorganization Commission concludes that the chief administrative officer of this Board should not be the chairman but a full-time director chosen by the Board. This would permit a clear delineation between the policy-making, rule-making and adjudicatory functions, which should remain in the Board, and the administrative function which the Board would delegate to its director.

I heartily endorse this recommendation and urge its adoption.

The recommendation of the Reorganization Commission contemplates that the State Board of Alcoholic Control will consist of three part-time policy members, with a full-time director as the chief administrative officer of the Board. The present members of this Board inform me that in their judgment the affairs of this sensitive agency would be better conducted and the public interest better served, with a five-member policy board. As is well known, it is not always possible to have all members of a part-time board present at every meeting, due to illness, unavoidable conflict in schedules or other good cause, and this is more serious with a three-man board!

I join with the ABC Board in recommending that you enact legislation providing for a five-member policy board, with a full-time director as its chief administrative officer.

The position of director or administrator of this agency should be more nearly a career job, as we need to keep a high level of professional and impersonal law enforcement in the affairs of the State Board of Alcoholic Control.

Apparently, the failure of the General Assembly, session after session, to authorize a state-wide referendum on the liquor question indicates that the elected representatives of the people feel that no change should be made in our control system.

If this is the case, we should do everything possible to see that the State Board of Alcoholic Control does in fact effectively control the entire liquor traffic as required by law. The legislative branch, as well as the executive, has the responsibility to insure by the enactment of proper laws that we have a Board of Control which is active and fearless, with officers and employees of the Board who are intelligent, energetic and fearless, and that no favoritism or privilege is allowed anyone or any group.

In short, I suggest that there should be strict and impartial enforcement of all laws affecting liquor, wine and beer. If this is not done, we should do away with the system entirely.

TAX LAW STUDY

The 1957 General Assembly directed by continuance of a study of our tax laws which was begun in 1955. The report now before you for consideration deals mainly with the property tax, the only major area of taxation which was not covered by the previous study.

The Tax Study Commission concluded that several aspects of our property tax administration are in great need of improvement.

For example, it was found that ratios of assessed value to the actual market value of real estate vary considerably from county to county and vary widely between parcels of real estate located within the same county. In one instance, tax assessment of property varied from an unbelievable 4% to 129% of current market value, within the same county.

It was also found that different types of property were often assessed at different percentages of market value within a given county. For example, real estate might be assessed at 40% of market value, automobiles at 67% of market value, and retail inventories at 50% of cost.

The Commission gave special attention to the very questionable practice of property tax exemption, finding a growing tendency for counties or small groups of counties to secure local acts to exempt particular types of property within those counties. This of course leads to very undesirable tax competition between counties. Furthermore, these sorts of tax exemptions appear to be in direct conflict with the State Constitution.

Under present general law, it is required that our counties revalue real estate every four years. By special and local acts the General Assembly in the past has frequently authorized postponement of real property reassessment. It appears that no county revalues real property as frequently as every four years, and some counties have not had a general revaluation of real property for tax purposes in more than twenty years.

Certainly, there is no greater fiscal obligation upon government than to insure that our tax laws are equitable and that unjust weight does not fall upon any individual taxpayer nor upon any particular group of taxpayers.

The people of North Carolina want and should have equitable property tax laws, which are capable of being impartially administered.

Now is the time and the opportunity to remedy these matters which have been forcefully brought to our attention. I urge your consideration of and action on the recommendations submitted by the Tax Study Commission.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT STUDY

In compliance with a mandate of the 1957 General Assembly, a commission consisting of six members of the House and three members of the Senate has given careful and intensive thought to the problems confronting municipal government in North Carolina. That commission has filed an outstanding report, comprehensive in its grasp of the problems confronting municipal governments and in its challenge to the State to plan wisely and well for our continued urban growth and the economic development of North Carolina.

On the basis of available evidence on population trends, the Municipal Government Commission has estimated that by 1980 an additional one and a half million people will be living in and around North Carolina cities and towns. Such a development will make North Carolina an urban State in the sense that more of our citizens will be living in urban areas than in rural. I am convinced, as I believe you will be, that we must have better cooperation between the State, the cities and the counties. We must give more emphasis to effective community planning, and we must insure that our municipal tax system is improved to the extent that it is both adequate and equitable for meeting future needs.

May I emphasize that all available evidence points conclusively to the fact that we shall experience a rapid and extensive urban growth in this State. It will be one of two kinds. It will either be a desirable and healthy growth, bringing to our citizens countless advantages. Or, it will be an undesirable and unhealthy development which will imperil our future, compound our problems of municipal finance, and deface our countryside with an unsightly, unsanitary, slum-breeding conglomeration, as has happened to many other states.

With respect to financing municipal government, this report concludes that the present municipal tax system is essentially adequate and equitable for the foreseeable future, if the basic recommendations of the Tax Study Commission dealing with the property tax are put into effect.

Recommendations of the Municipal Government Commission, including the matter of extending city limits, will be placed before you for consideration and action.

OTHER SPECIAL STUDIES

Reports by other legislative study commissions which will be before you are those dealing with the selection of University Trustees, Cancer Control and Care, Nursing and Boarding Homes, Map Laws and Operations of motor Boats.

CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION

Two of the most important reports come to you from the Commission which has been studying revision of our State Constitution and the Committee of the North Carolina Bar Association which has been studying the operation and administration of our courts.

Each of these reports is very significant and each contains the careful findings and recommendations of able and devoted citizens. With your permission, I shall omit at this time discussion of the recommendations for court improvement and the general revision of our State Constitution, and make these the subject of a special message to the General Assembly at a later date.

CONCLUSION

My remarks today have encompassed a far-reaching legislative program which is designed to improve many governmental services, and to accelerate the continued growth and progress of our economy. Some may think it is too ambitious a program for a Governor who is dealing with his last session of the General Assembly, but I want you to know that my approach to this legislative program is based entirely upon my desire to do the best I can for North Carolina and its people in the time I have left as Governor. It is my hope that this program, if it meets your approval, will make a permanent contribution to the progress of our State in the years ahead.

In my travels outside the State and nation, I have often had people ask me: "Why do North Carolinians love their State so much?" I have never been able to give an adequate answer, except to acknowledge the fact that this love does exist and that it is a strong motivating force underlying all the things that have been accomplished in North Carolina during the past half century.

We do have a wonderful State, blessed with many natural resources and with fine, honest, hard-working people. Our General Assembly is always a good and representative cross-section of our population, and has served well the people of our State. We all recognize that the year 1959 will be a year of great legislative decisions, and I welcome the careful consideration, the wisdom and the experience which you will bring to bear on the many problems and challenges confronting us. There is unlimited opportunity ahead for North Carolina if we act wisely, vigorously, and with a full realization of the needs of our people.

Let us all work together for what we consider best for North Carolina, receiving our reward through the personal joy and happiness in serving our fellow citizens who have given us this opportunity to represent them in the operation of their State government. There can be no greater reward! I shall eagerly look forward to working with you.

Thank you and God bless you!

BUDGET MESSAGE
OF
GOVERNOR LUTHER H. HODGES
TO THE
NORTH CAROLINA GENERAL ASSEMBLY
Monday, February 9, 1959

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the General Assembly of North Carolina:

In my Biennial Message delivered to you last Thursday, many aspects of the affairs of our State were discussed. As stated in that message, the broad range of items considered prevented inclusion of our budget-revenue recommendations and observations for the next biennium.

Necessarily in dealing with such a tremendous subject as our budget we will have to speak tonight in a somewhat summary form. I am, however, attaching copies of the Budget Report of the Governor and Advisory Budget Commission to your copies of this message. The Budget Report more fully explains our recommendations, and I strongly urge that you read it carefully and give it your considered study.

I am also submitting herewith copies of all the budget documents. These are the "A" Budget, the "B" Budget, the Capital Improvements Budget, and the Budget Digest. These documents contain the specific appropriations recommended for each agency and institution. I am also submitting copies of the Budget Revenue and Appropriation Bills which will be introduced in due course.

I would like to express publicly to the members of the Advisory Budget Commission the sincere appreciation of the State and of myself for their outstanding service. They are: William Copeland of Murfreesboro, Kemp Doughton of Sparta, Joe Eagles of Wilson, Carl Venters of Jacksonville, William Womble of Winston-Salem, and Nelson Woodson of Salisbury. These distinguished citizens have served tirelessly and unselfishly, and have given greatly of their time and ability.

In preparing the recommended budget for the 1959-61 biennium the Advisory Budget Commission and I have given detailed, careful, and sympathetic consideration to the requests submitted by each of the State agencies and institutions. At the same time, we have been conscious of our duty of seeing, insofar as we are able, that the tax dollars of the people of North Carolina are spent only to the extent necessary to provide governmental services for which there is a clearly demonstrated need.

Let us now consider the appropriations which are recommended.

Total recommended expenditures for operations and for capital improvements, which total includes receipts, both from the Federal Government and collections from other sources, amount to $1,214,925,934.

This tremendous total may be broken down into major subheads as follows:

(1) $754,078,551 for operating expenses for General Fund agencies and institutions, with $192,880,662 to be realized from agency receipts (including Federal Funds) and $561,197,889 to be derived from tax and non-tax revenues and use of credit balance.

(2) $354,211,054 for operating expenses for Highway Fund agencies, with $57,139,132 to be realized from receipts (including Federal Funds) and $297,071,922 to come from Highway taxes, fees, and use of credit balance.

(3) For Capital Improvements, the sum of $45,374,149, most of which we recommend be secured from the sale of bonds. Included in the total figure of $1,214,925,934 is the amount of $61,262,180 from other special funds such as Employment Security Commission, University Enterprises, Wildlife, Banking, etc.

While the amounts recommended are large, I assure you they are not nearly as large as the amounts which were requested. The total amount requested from the General Fund for operations of the General Fund agencies and institutions is $630,344,701, which is $119,695,809, or 23.4% above estimated General Fund expenditures for the present biennium. To grant all of these requests would require $141,143,322 above the General Fund revenues we estimate will be realized during the present biennium, and would necessitate increasing the tax burden of all North Carolinians by a substantial amount—a result which all of us would like to avoid if at all possible.

Thus, as Budget Commissions and Governors have probably done every biennium for many decades, we had to face the problem of analyzing these requests and determining as best we could which we felt are truly necessary and which, at least for the time being, can be omitted.

To help distinguish between the urgency of the multitudinous and highly varied requests we have been aided by the new form in which agency requests were prepared. As was explained during the Legislative briefing sessions held in November, requests for funds necessary to continue existing services and programs at present quality levels are contained in what we call the "A" Budget; while the "B" Budget consists of funds necessary to support expansions, improvements, and new programs.

Saying that we were aided by this new method of presenting requests does not mean—as you will see from our recommendations—that we automatically approved everything requested for the continuation of present services, and then recommended such improvements, expansions, and new programs as we felt could be afforded within available funds. On the contrary, we reviewed with great care all requests made—those in the "A" Budget as well as those in the "B" Budget.

Of the combined "A" and "B" Budget requests for General Fund appropriations, we recommend $561,197,889, which is $50,548,997, or approximately 10% above estimated General Fund expenditures for the present biennium. $541,623,059 of the recommended total is for "A" Budget purposes and is $5,262,884 less than requested, while $19,574,830 is for "B" Budget purposes and is $63,883,928 less than requested.

Speaking of the "B" Budget recommendation—and it should be remembered that these are for expansions, improvements, and new programs—you may well feel on first impression that all such additional expenditures can be done without. However, after careful evaluation we have concluded that some of the requests contained in the "B" Budget are seriously needed, and we have accordingly recommended them to you.

We believe you will agree that a General Fund operating budget which provides for an increase of $50,548,997, or approximately 10% referred to above, in General Fund expenditures for the present biennium is one which would appear to provide adequately for all necessary services. Indeed, some of you may feel that an appropriation increase of the size we recommend may well be beyond that required for necessary services. In any event, the recommended increase certainly requires a justifying explanation. Such an explanation I shall now try to give you by discussing briefly the major factors which are responsible for this substantial increase.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

By far the greatest portion of the recommended budget is for public education. And this, in my opinion, is as it should be.

There will be an average of 21,000 additional school children enrolled each year of the next biennium. To employ the new teachers necessary to handle this growth in enrollment will require an increase of approximately $15½ million in the biennial appropriation for the nine months school term. This gives a total of approximately $311,500,000 for the biennium just to continue our public schools on the same basis as at present. We are not content, however, to provide merely for continuation. We are recommending certain additional appropriations in connection with the public schools.

Authorities in the field of education, including our State Board of Education, have for some time pointed to the low starting salaries of beginning public school teachers as one of the principal deterrents in attracting qualified people to enter the teaching profession. To help solve this problem, the State Board has recommended increases in starting salaries which would provide holders of "A" certificates a minimum starting salary of $3,100 as compared with the present $2,799. We agree with the Board's recommendation as to increasing the salary of beginning teachers and have recommended appropriations to take care of this with comparable increases in the starting salaries of holders of Class "G", "B", and "C" certificates, and for vocational education teachers where applicable. We have not, however, recommended that all salaries above the starting salary be raised. Our suggestion as to how the State Board of Education can implement these proposals within the funds recommended are contained in the Budget Report to which I refer you.

Another recommendation of the State Board with which we agree and for which we recommend the necessary appropriations is that of paying the teachers (including those vocational education teachers to which it will be applicable) for the extra week of work which we are told many of them are already doing before the opening and after the closing of the regular 180 day term. We feel that if this extra pay for these extra days of preparation and for cleaning up last minute details will insure a full program of teaching for the entire 180 days, (and it certainly should) it will be well worth the biennial cost of $6,899,556. And I would like to add that if this recommendation is approved by you, I am sure our school administrators and teachers will see that the State gets what it is paying for. Certainly the students' education will be benefited by the elimination of what is reported in many instances to be a hesitant, part-time start at the beginning of the school year and the several days let-up toward the end of the year. I should also like to express our hope that the full 180 days term will be dedicated to teaching the fundamental knowledge which our children need and must have today and tomorrow. I am sure our school people will welcome the interest and cooperation of all parents and citizens in this matter.

In our recommendations for educational purposes we have also included funds for needy supervisory personnel in the Department of Public Instruction. We agree with the Superintendent of Public Instruction that this extra supervisory service from the State level should materially improve the quality of the teaching program.

HIGHER EDUCATION

In the area of higher education our recommendations include approximately $40,000,000 for operating funds. This is an increase of $3,500,000, or approximately 10%, above estimated expenditures for the current biennium.

Included in the recommendations for higher education is an appropriation of $1,500,000 for allotment to the several institutions of higher learning for selective increases in faculty salaries. It will be recalled that funds appropriated by the 1957 General Assembly for salary changes of college personnel were made available to the Presidents of the institutions to be distributed on a discretionary basis subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget. This was to encourage the awarding of pay raises on a merit basis. In most instances the Presidents fully accepted this responsibility and have made good use of funds that were available. We recommend the same sort of provision, with the same approval required, be made for the next biennium.

It should be mentioned in connection with the proposed salary fund for college teaching personnel, that these college persons are not eligible for the regular merit salary increments which are provided for State employees generally. Furthermore, with respect to some of the institutions, we have declined to recommend additional college teachers to maintain what seems to us to be light student and teaching-hour loads. We feel that the work load of faculty personnel at comparable institutions should be more equal than at present, and that some increase of work load at certain of the institutions is necessary if the State is to be able to absorb the large increase in enrollment which is expected during the next several years.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

Among our recommendations in the field of education we have also included provisions for expansion of the industrial training program authorized by the 1957 General Assembly. This program contemplated the establishment of highly flexible methods by which North Carolina workers could be trained for employment in industries which require special skills and which we hoped would be coming to our State in increasing numbers. The State Board of Education, assisted by a group of legislators, devoted a great deal of careful and fruitful study to the details of how such a program could be set up. The plan finally submitted by the Board and approved by the Governor and Advisory Budget Commission is one which in our view gives North Carolina a good industrial training program. Pursuant to this plan seven Industrial Education Centers have already been established in as many communities and we are recommending appropriations for the operation of eleven more such centers.

May I also call your attention to the fact that the total appropriations recommended for public schools (including vocational education) and higher education, which total includes retirement contributions for employees and debt service on bonds issued for educational purposes, amount to approximately $418,750,000, or 74.6% of the entire General Fund recommended appropriations for the coming biennium.

NATURAL RESOURCES AND INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

Another area of governmental activity in which we make certain recommendations of particular interest is that of natural resources and industrial development.

Appropriations of approximately $4¾ million are recommended for operations of the Department of Conservation and Development which includes divisions of Forestry, Parks, Minerals, Water Resources, Advertising, Commerce and Industry, and others. The industrial development program is moving along well, and to take advantage of the success achieved we recommend increased amounts for advertising and distribution of promotional materials.

Speaking of industrial developments in our State, we recently announced some thrilling new plans concerning the Research Triangle area. In my thinking about the future of the Research Triangle I had up until recently considered the project as definitely a long-range one with its great potential being many years away, but very tangible and practical results are already making themselves known. Private donations exceeding $1,500,000 have now been secured from North Carolinians to finance operations of a Research Institute including $300,000 for construction of a building. We are recommending that the State contribute $200,000 as a non-recurring grant-in-aid to this project for the purchase of equipment to be used by the Research Institute. I feel that the State could make no better investment in the future of education and research than to make this modest grant—especially in view of the general financial support already gotten from private sources.

The Research Triangle Foundation is a non-profit, quasi-public institution. I know of no project in which I have had the privilege of participating of which I am more proud. Nor do I know of any other activity now going on which has more potential value—both from the standpoint of dollars and cents, and otherwise—for the proper development of our Great State and the welfare of its people. It is my firm belief that in a relatively few years, the benefits of the Research Triangle will be felt in every section of North Carolina and that its influence and prestige will be felt throughout the Nation and the entire world.

Another of our recommendations I would like to mention in connection with the field of natural resources is one which would authorize a project to help stabilize and preserve our great Outer Banks.

Many of you may not be aware of the real seriousness of the situation along our coast, but if these protective outer banks are destroyed, our sounds are going to become part of the ocean and extensive coastal lands are going to be ruined with flooding salt water and wave damage. Furthermore, the scenic beauty of much of coastal North Carolina will be forever destroyed.

Effects of the hurricanes which have hit our Coast during recent years, added to our own careless land practices in the area, have now brought us to a point that something must be done—and done quickly. We are, therefore, recommending appropriations of $200,000 for the necessary surveys, engineering studies, etc., in connection with our inlets, shorelines, dunes, etc., and $400,000 for the purchase of certain land by the State. State ownership of this land will make us eligible for financial assistance from the Federal Government in connection with our continuing effort to meet this tremendous problem. We strongly urge that you approve these appropriations.

STATE PERSONNEL MATTERS

A budget-appropriation problem which faces the Advisory Budget Commission, the Governor, and the General Assembly almost every biennium is that having to do with salaries of State employees. This is, of course, a natural occurrence since our State Government, like any other functioning organization, is made up primarily of people doing jobs. And like any other organization, the way these people do their jobs will determine whether our government will be good or bad, efficient or inefficient, successful or unsuccessful. It, therefore, is necessary that each Governor and each General Assembly, representing the interest of the people whose government this is, make sure that the conditions of employment in State Government are such as will attract and retain qualified employees and will encourage and permit them to perform their assigned tasks in a thoroughly competent manner. Salaries are, of course, a major factor in this area, although certainly not the only factor.

As pointed out in the Budget Report, we have given a great deal of attention and study to the question of salaries of State employees. I might add that we have also considered other conditions of State employment, including retirement benefits, paid vacations, paid sick leave, holidays, periodic salary range revisions, merit salary increases, etc.

As a result of our review of these matters we have concluded that the State of North Carolina, in general, treats its employees very well. With our combination of State Retirement and Social Security benefits, we have a very good retirement program. In fact, except for one shortcoming which I will mention later, we have a far better retirement program than most governmental units, and indeed better than many large private industries. Vacation and sick leave provisions are also generous—with an annual vacation of three calendar weeks, and two weeks per year sick leave. Sick leave is cumulative in an unlimited amount. In addition to the three weeks annual leave and two weeks sick leave, the State grants a minimum of nine holidays per year, and petty leave privileges which amount to 14 working hours—or almost two working days per year. Altogether the leave with pay provisions add up to about 35 days per year, or at 5 working days per week—7 calendar weeks.

Our study of salaries now being paid by the State revealed that, generally speaking, State salaries are reasonably competitive with comparable jobs in other governmental units and in private industry. We have noted that between September, 1956, and September, 1958, the average salary for State employees, excluding teachers and other public school employees, increased from $3,309 to $3,904, a jump of $595, or 17.98%. This increase has been brought about by the general salary raise given by the 1957 General Assembly and the distribution of regular merit salary increments.

Although we have concluded that most State salaries are competitive at present rates, it is, of course, highly probable that during the next two years the salaries paid for some of the jobs in State Government will need adjusting upward if we are to maintain our competitive position. To take care of this problem we recommend a biennial appropriation of $2 million ($1,400,000 from the General Fund and $600,000 from the Highway Fund) to be used for this purpose in connection with jobs subject to the State Personnel Act. We propose that, during the next biennium, the Personnel Department, in cooperation with the heads of the agencies and institutions, make a continuing review of all such jobs, and subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, make appropriate salary rate adjustments as needed.

I am sure you will be interested in knowing that for all employees, including teachers and college personnel, we have recommended in the total budget for the next biennium approximately $16 million for salary adjustments in addition to the $2 million just mentioned. This gives a total of approximately $18 million to be used for this purpose. This total is made up of the $2 million for salary adjustments of employees subject to the Personnel Act (including Highway employees); $4,043,833 for regular merit salary increments also for employees subject to the Personnel Act; $1,525,000 for college professional personnel, including Agricultural Experiment Station personnel; $1,968,612 for increasing beginning teachers' salaries; $1,556,000 for automatic increments for school personnel; and $6,899,556 for the extra week's pay for teachers.

There are a few other situations in connection with employment conditions of State employees which I would like to recommend that you consider. Under present laws governing the Retirement System, the State, as the employer, matches an employee's contribution to the Retirement Fund until that employee reaches the age of 60. After that point the State makes no further contribution. I recommend that these contributions continue until the employee reaches the age of 65. I also recommend that you make $70 the minimum payment to retired employees who are now drawing either pensions or retirement benefits, as compared with the present minimum of $60.00. The administrators of the Retirement System inform me that both of these recommendations can be implemented without requiring any change in the contributions made by the State or by employees to the Retirement System. They advise this is possible because of the very sound actuarial practices followed by those responsible for the management and investment policies of the State Retirement System.

I would like to recommend that per diem allowances for State employees who must travel be raised from the present $8.00 to $9.00 for in-State travel, and from the present $11.00 to $12.00 for out-of-state travel. Per diem allowances have not been increased since 1953, and simply do not cover present day costs. I recommend also that when State employees are required to move their residence for the convenience of the State, that moving expenses be paid by the State. The cost of these proposals can, in my opinion, be absorbed in the amounts presently recommended in the budgets of the various agencies.

There has been some mention of the need in our State Government for longevity pay. This grows out of the fact that many of the employees who have been with the State for long periods of time have reached the top of their salary range and are frozen at their present rate. I recommend that the General Assembly make provisions for a study of this problem during the next biennium and that those making this study prepare specific recommendations to be considered by the General Assembly at its next session.

As already stated, conditions of employment for State workers constitute, in my opinion, the key factor in maintaining an efficient State Government. As said in my message last Thursday, we can all be proud of the loyal and efficient service rendered by the State employees generally, and I sincerely hope you will approve the recommendations made for the benefit of our State employees.

OTHER GOVERNMENTAL ACTIVITIES

The limitations of time forbid a discussion of our recommendations for each General Fund agency and institution of State Government. However, we can make a quick run-down of the percentage increases provided in each governmental area. These several areas together include all General Fund agencies or institutions not already mentioned, and the size of these increases will demonstrate that all have been provided for in the recommended General Fund budget.

In the area of General Government, which includes such agencies as the offices of the Governor, the Secretary of State, the Auditor, the Treasurer, and the Departments of Insurance, Administration, Revenue, Personnel, the Utilities Commission, Courts, etc., we recommend an increase in operating appropriations which amounts to 7.3%; in Public Welfare the recommended increase is 7.7%; for the State Department of Agriculture the over-all increase, including General Fund and Agriculture Fund appropriations is 8.5%; in the field of Public Safety and Regulations, which includes the Department of Labor, Motor Vehicles, Civil Defense, etc., the recommended increase in General Fund appropriations is 8.5%; for Health and Hospital agencies it is 9.8%; and, for correctional schools the increase recommended is 21.6%..

AGENCIES SUPPORTED BY HIGHWAY FUND

As you know, several of the agencies of the State are supported, either in whole or in part, out of Highway Funds, and the proportion of Highway Revenue appropriated to the Highway Department itself is steadily decreasing. Recommended appropriations from the Highway Fund to be used by the Highway Department during the next biennium amount to $235,166,685, which constitutes only a 1.1% increase over Highway Fund money to be expended by the Department during the present biennium. We are speaking now of State funds received from Highway taxes and fees, and the figures just cited do not include Federal appropriations which, unfortunately for our State, are going down compared to the last biennium.

Motor transportation generally, including both private and commercial transportation, is growing very fast in North Carolina. Ours is a large state, geographically speaking, and our State Highway System includes 70,000 miles—the largest number of miles of roads of any state-maintained system in the Nation. As we develop industrially, and as our communities and economy expand, the use of our highways will increase rapidly. This means that more and more money will be needed to take care of highway maintenance and construction if we are to have the modern highways demanded of a growing and progressive state.

While our maintenance costs are increasing and needs for new construction are becoming greater, the Highway Fund is being called upon to support larger and larger appropriations for agencies other than the Highway Department. For example, we recommend for the State Probation Commission an increase for the next biennium of $221,034, or 29.1% over estimated expenditures by this agency for 1957-59. We know from the state-wide standpoint this recommendation should be granted because, in addition to having worthwhile humanitarian results, it will help keep down the size of our Prison population and the cost of these operations.

For the same reasons we recommend an increase of $172,186, or 31% for the Paroles Commission. This agency is doing a good and necessary job, and I urge your support of this increase.

The Prison Department, although making excellent headway toward its own support must, nevertheless, rely on funds secured from the continued use of prisoners by the Highway Department. It is generally recognized that so far as Highway matters are concerned, it would be more economical to use fewer prisoners and rely on modern machinery to get the job done. We cannot do this, however, because without the money received from the Highway Fund in payment for the labor of these prisoners, the source of support for prison operations would have to come from somewhere else. And, unless there is other worthwhile work in which prisoners could be engaged, it would be unwise, as a matter of Prison policy to take these prisoners off Highway work. In spite of the fact that Prison Enterprises are using more and more prisoners, we can use only a few hundred in industries and must still continue to assign 7,000 of them to the Highway Department at a cost of $5.00 per day per prisoner for a total cost of $17,570,000 for the biennium.

In the recommended budget we have not increased the number of prisoners to be assigned to the Highway Department but, of course, we have had to budget for an increased Prison population.

Another large agency supported from Highway revenues is the Department of Motor Vehicles, but this one is more directly connected with highway use. Highway Fund appropriations recommended for this Department for the next biennium amount to approximately $17½ million, which is an increase of 9% over estimated expenditures for the present biennium. In this increase we have provided for 25 new patrolmen to partially take care of traffic growth and new duties assigned patrolmen.

In summing up the matter of appropriations from the Highway Fund, it should be pointed out that we are recommending from Highway funds for non-highway agencies (Probation, Paroles, and Prison) a total of $26,301,623, which includes the cost of Prison labor used on the highways. As already stated, approximately $17,500,000 is budgeted from Highway revenues for the Department of Motor Vehicles. In addition we must provide approximately $29¾ million to the Highway Bond Debt Service Reserve and $14 million to Reserve for State Aid to Municipalities.

The appropriations just mentioned, combined with the fact that during the present biennium Highway expenditures included a surplus of some $8¼ million from the 1955-57 biennium, are responsible for the relative smallness of the percentage increase in funds available to the Highway Department for the next biennium. This percentage increase, as already mentioned, is only 1.1% even though State Highway revenues as a whole are estimated to increase 7.4%.

I would like to conclude the portion of this message dealing with Highway Fund appropriations by pointing out that at some point serious consideration should be given to the problem of ever-increasing amounts of Highway revenues which, under our present laws, will be necessary to support activities other than the maintenance and construction of highways.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS

For General Fund agencies and institutions we recommend Capital Improvements totalling $42,765,000, and we propose that this amount be raised by the issuance of bonds and reappropriation of the Revolving Fund which was set up in 1957. Of the total improvements recommended, slightly in excess of $25 million is for education, and approximately $21½ million of this amount is for higher education.

During the past eighteen months the Board of Higher Education has made a thorough and detailed study of the building needs of the three branches of the University and the other State-supported institutions of higher learning. The study, which was carried on in cooperation with the institutions themselves, enabled the Board to recommend a long-range program which would substantially take care of the building needs of all the institutions through the year 1970. The net cost of this program, as recommended by the Board, would be in excess of $78 million. Actually, the cost would be approximately $90 million, but an estimated $12 million would be returned in dormitory rentals.

In our opinion the Board has, by this study, rendered an excellent service, and its members are to be commended for it. However, the Advisory Budget Commission and I concluded that the State cannot, at this time, provide for all the recommended projects.

Our Capital Improvement recommendations for the institutions of higher learning would take care of the expected large increase in college enrollment through 1963. Since it would probably be three or four years before projects provided by a bond issue could be completed, and since the heaviest period of expected increase in college enrollment will occur during the next four or five years, we feel very strongly that our recommendations constitute the minimum that the 1959 General Assembly should provide for capital improvements at our institutions of higher learning.

I would like to add to this my own recommendation that you dedicate any surplus revenues beyond your final revenue estimates which might come in during the 1959-61 biennium for the building of some of the other projects in the Board's long-range program which we have not included in our minimum needs. This would be very helpful.

Included in our total recommendations for capital improvements are projects for hospitals (primarily mental institutions), costing approximately $8 million. These projects include a large expansion at Butner Training School, and extensive renovations at Morganton and at the State Hospitals at Raleigh and Butner.

We have also included in our recommendations the sum of $4½ million for the planning and construction of a new Legislative Building. This project was originally recommended by the Commission on Reorganization of State Government which, during the past year, made a thorough study of the problem. The Reorganization Commission held a public hearing on the question, well publicized in advance, at which not one citizen or official raised any objection to this proposal, and indeed all who spoke favored it enthusiastically. The Commission's report recommended the figure of $7 million for this building, but, considering the Study Commission's recommendation in connection with other needed capital improvements, we recommend an appropriation for this purpose of not less than $4½ million.

The Advisory Budget Commission and I, along with the Commission on Reorganization of State Government, feel that now is the time to do something about this very serious problem which becomes more acute every year. It seems to me very short-sighted to continue requiring the members of the General Assembly, engaged in what is by far the most important business in the State, to work under the harassing conditions such as now exist and which are far worse than other states have to endure. It is my firm belief that if every citizen of North Carolina could come here and watch you try to do your work under these trying conditions, the overwhelming majority would say that in fairness to the public whose business you are carrying on, better facilities should be provided.

All of us strongly recommend that no change whatever be made in the present Capitol building or its grounds, but that it remain as a museum or monument to the greatness of North Carolina, its traditions and its history. I cannot express too strongly my sincere opinion that this recommendation for a Legislative Building should be approved.

The recommendation which we have included for land acquisition will put the State in a very good position so far as land needs are concerned and will give us space for further building needs for many years to come. We think the acquiring of this additional land will be a very wise move.

Time does not permit any discussion of the various other capital improvements projects recommended but, of course, each is set out in detail in the Capital Improvements Budget with which you will be working during your deliberations.

GENERAL FUND REVENUES

We would like to discuss how the appropriations which we have recommended are to be financed. As already mentioned, we are of the opinion that the Capital Improvements program should be financed by a reappropriation of the Revolving Fund and by the issuance of bonds. Appropriations for operating expenses will, however, have to come from revenues and through use of the available credit balance. It is estimated that the available General Fund credit balance at the end of the present biennium (June 30, 1959) will be $13,762,053, which, as you know, is far from the $63 million credit balance appropriated by the 1957 General Assembly.

Several months ago I made a public statement to the effect that the General Assembly would probably have to levy new taxes this session in order to support necessary appropriations. That statement was made in view of economic conditions then prevailing, but fortunately our country has substantially recovered from the recession. I am happy to report that, on the basis of available economic data, it now appears that we are in for a period of favorable economic progress.

Naturally, no one can say with absolute accuracy what the future holds for our economy which is dependent on many, many factors over which most of us have no control—factors such as world markets, Federal spending, defense needs, foreign relations, etc. But, under law, the Budget Commission and I are required to make revenue recommendations and a balanced budget. We have, therefore, with the advice and counsel of the Commissioner of Revenue and the Director of Tax Research and others, felt justified in making General Fund Revenue estimates for the 1959-61 biennium which contemplates a revenue increase of 6.3%, or $30,745,947 over the $489,201,379 in General Fund revenues estimated for the present biennium.

This increase of $30,745,947 in General Fund revenues will provide a total of approximately $520,000,000 from General Fund revenues during the coming biennium. Our credit balance of approximately $13¾ million added to the $520,000,000 in revenues, will give us a total of approximately $534,000,000 available for the next biennium's General Fund appropriations without making any change in our present tax laws. As already mentioned, however, the recommended General Fund appropriations are more than $561,000,000, which means that we will need an additional $27½ million to provide sufficient revenues to support the recommended appropriations.

It is our recommendation that the additional $27½ million be secured by the adoption of a withholding and "pay-as-you-go" plan in connection with the State income tax. This plan, together with the increased revenues we have just mentioned, will make new taxes unnecessary and we are delighted to so announce. Except for some minor administrative changes which will not appreciably affect total revenues, we do not recommend any other changes in our tax laws, nor do we recommend any increase in existing rates. There are few states in the Union that can say this.

An article in the January 12 issue of Newsweek had this to say, and I quote, "Throughout the Nation hard-pressed states and local governments are getting ready to tap the public pocketbooks as probably never before." The article points out that taxes are to go up in about 34 states, including most of our Southern neighbors. In California the deficit reported in the article is $285 million, and in New York it is $220 million. So, you can see why I am particularly pleased to announce that our budget recommendations will not call for any additional taxes other than the change in connection with the withholding provisions.

Our Highway revenue estimates, arrived at in the same manner as General Fund estimates, will provide a biennial increase of 7.4%, or approximately $18,500,000. In total amounts we estimate that State Highway revenues, under existing taxes, for the next biennium will be $265,834,000 as compared with $247,455,470 for the present biennium.

SCHOOL INCENTIVE FUND

There is an additional recommendation I would like to make in connection with the financing of our public schools. It is one which proposes to set up a State School Incentive Fund of $10,000,000 for each year to be matched by local communities in accordance with their ability to pay. It comes not from the Advisory Budget Commission but from the Commission on Public School Finance with my support and, in my opinion, it is one of the most important of all the recommendations I make to you. It does not transfer any load from the State. It simply adds more money—State and local—to help strengthen our schools.

It is estimated that $10 million, if made available by the State yearly, will bring forth an additional $6½ million yearly when matched by the communities according to the formula outlined in the School Finance Report. Because of the time which will be necessary to set up the matching formula and administrative machinery for this fund, I recommend that $10,000,000 be made available beginning in the second year of the biennium. It is my hope, of course, that the appropriation will be continued thereafter.

This total of $10,000,000 which I strongly recommend you make available is not figured in our revenue estimates, but for this particular important development for the future of our schools, I would like to see you make the necessary appropriations. If economic conditions should improve beyond the rates originally estimated by the Advisory Budget Commission and myself, it may be possible to secure the necessary funds for this appropriation by increasing our revenue estimates. This is something that you will want to consider in the coming months. If, however, in the days ahead, economic conditions should worsen or fail to continue their improvement, I will join you in recommending the levying of sufficient taxes to provide the needed amount.

I will not repeat here the reasons already given in my previous message as to why I think this incentive approach recommended by the distinguished Commission on Public School Finance should be adopted. It is backed by staunch friends of the public schools and I understand by the professional school people in general. It is my sincere conviction that those interested in the long-range good of our schools share my belief that unless some such approach is made in North Carolina our public schools will continue to lose standing and, as you know, they are already too close to the bottom in our Nation in many financial respects.

When we add the proposed $10 million to the amounts recommended for the higher minimum salaries and the pay for an extra week, and also include the $6½ million to come from local communities for matching the $10 million, it will mean that in the second year of the coming biennium there will be available to the counties to use for any items in their current expense school budgets an amount of money which, if they should choose to use entirely for teacher salary increases, could provide a percentage increase of 16.7% over amounts being paid for teacher salaries during the present biennium. And even if we were to exclude from this total the amount required for the extra week's pay, which some may reasonably point out should not be considered an increase in salary, the percentage salary increase possible in the second year of the biennium over the present biennium would still be 13.9%. Let me emphasize that the local units can spend the money for any item in their current expense school budget.

Governor's Salary. There is one additional recommendation we would like to make to you. At present the salary of the Governor is $15,000 per year. It has not been increased since 1949, whereas, salaries, particularly those at the executive level in government and industry, have gone steadily and rapidly upward since that time. In fact, there are several positions in our State agencies or institutions which carry salaries larger than that paid the Governor. In keeping with the dignity and prestige of the office and of the State, we recommend that, starting with the next Governor, this salary be raised from $15,000 to $25,000 per year. I particularly want to emphasize that this increase is recommended to begin with the next Governor, and is not to become effective during my own term of office.

Inasmuch as the term of the next Governor will begin six months before the end of the next biennium, we have included in the proposed budget recommendations the sum of $5,000 to provide, as of January 1, 1961, for the increased salary for the six months period.

CONCLUSION

In concluding this message I should like to express my great faith in our State and my tremendous optimism about its future. North Carolina, in its traditional method of going neither too fast to the new nor staying too long with the old, is moving toward a brighter and better life for all of its people. It is my task and your task to see that not only is this progress made possible, but that it is actively encouraged. If our State is to continue its march into an enlightened future, our children must have good public schools, our colleges must be able to take care of those who can benefit from higher education, our streets and highways must be modern and up-to-date, and all our programs of development must be adequately financed. At the same time, we must make provision for our aged, for our sick, for our mentally ill, and for all others who, through no fault of their own, are unable to participate actively in the glorious progress which our State is making. Our strength is enough to carry them all if we do not stint. And we must not.

The budget figures and fiscal information presented tonight are very important and deserve your careful study and consideration. Let us remember, however, that these same figures represent more than a state balance sheet. They also represent a program by which we are able to meet genuine needs of our people. Wisely appropriated tax monies can readily be translated into needed services for all our citizens.

The Budget Commission and myself are well aware that the final decision on all these matters we have recommended is yours. We have done the best we could with a difficult task. We hope we have been of service to you in making careful analysis of the various programs. We think our recommendations adequately provide for the things we know our State believes in. We know that you will make some changes in what has been proposed and, in fact, we would not feel nearly so confident in the future of this State if we did not know that your collective wisdom would be brought to bear on all of these proposals before final decision is reached.

We are glad you are here. I want to work with you in every way possible for the good of our State.

I wish you God speed in your task.

Thank you.

After the Governor's address, on motion of Senator Morgan, the Joint Assembly dissolves, the Senate repairs to its Chambers and the House resumes consideration of its business.

ORDER OF BUSINESS

Rule 1. Convening Hour. The House shall convene each legislative day at the hour fixed by the House on the preceding legislative day; in case the House adjourned on the preceding legislative day without having fixed an hour for reconvening, the House shall reconvene on the next legislative day at twelve o'clock noon.

Rule 2. Opening the Session. At the convening hour on each legislative day the Speaker shall call the members to order, and shall have the session opened with prayer.

Rule 3. Quorum. (a) A quorum consists of a majority of the qualified members of the House.

(b) On the point of no quorum being raised, the doors shall be closed and the clerk shall call the roll of the House, after which the names of the absentees shall again be called over. Fifteen members, including the Speaker, are authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, and may order that absentees for whom no sufficient excuses are made shall be taken into custody as they appear, or wherever they may be found by special messenger appointed for that purpose.

Rule 4. Approval of Journal. The Committee on the Journal shall examine daily the Journal of the House before the hour of convening to determine if the proceedings of the previous day have been correctly recorded. Immediately following the opening prayer and upon appearance of a quorum, the Speaker shall call for the report of the Committee on the Journal as to whether or not the proceedings of the previous day have been correctly recorded; the Speaker shall then cause the Journal to be approved. Without objection the Journal shall stand approved.

Rule 5. Order of Business of the Day. After the approval of the Journal of the preceding day, the House shall proceed to business in the following order:

(1) The receiving of petitions, memorials and papers addressed to the General Assembly or to the House.

(2) Reports of standing committees.

(3) Reports of select committees.

(4) Introduction of Resolutions.

(5) Introduction of Bills.

(6) The unfinished business of the preceding day.

(7) Bills, resolutions, petitions, memorials, messages, and other papers on the Calendar in their exact numerical order, unless displaced by the orders of the day; but messages, and motions to elect officers shall always be in order.

(8) Reading of Notices and Announcements.

CONDUCT OF DEBATE

Rule 6. Duties and powers of Speaker. (a) The Speaker shall have general direction of the Hall. He may name any member to perform the duties of the Chair, but substitution shall not extend beyond one day, except in case of sickness or by leave of the House.

(b) In the event the Speaker, by reason of physical or mental incapacity, is unable to name a member to perform the duties of the Chair, the chairman or vice-chairman of the Rules Committee shall open the session, and the House shall thereupon proceed to elect one of their members as Speaker pro tempore, who shall perform all of the duties of the Speaker until such time as the Speaker may assume the Chair or name another member to perform the duties of the Chair.

Rule 7. Obtaining Floor. (a) When any member desires recognition for any purpose, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address the Speaker. No member shall proceed until recognized by the Speaker.

(b) When a member desires to interrupt a member having the floor, he shall first obtain recognition by the Speaker and permission of the member occupying the floor, and when so recognized and such permission is obtained, he may propound a question to the member occupying the floor, but he shall not propound a series of interrogatories or otherwise interrupt the member having the floor; and the Speaker shall, without the point of order being raised, enforce this rule.

Rule 8. Questions of Personal Privilege. At any time, upon recognition by the Speaker, any member may arise to speak to a question of personal privilege, and upon objection to his proceeding, the Speaker shall determine if the question is one of privilege.

Rule 9. Points of Order. (a) The Speaker shall decide questions of order and may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose. Any member may appeal from the ruling of the Chair on questions of order; on such appeal no member may speak more than once, unless by leave of the House. A $\frac{2}{3}$ vote of the members present shall be necessary to sustain any appeal from the ruling of the Chair.

(b) When the Speaker calls a member to order, the member shall take his seat. A member called to order may clear a matter of fact, or explain, but shall not proceed in debate so long as the decision stands. If the member appeals from the ruling of the Chair and the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he may proceed; if otherwise, he shall not; and if the case, in the judgment of the House require it, he shall be liable to censure by the House.

Rule 10. Limitations on Debate. No member shall speak more than twice on the main question, nor longer than thirty minutes for the first speech and fifteen minutes for the second speech, unless allowed to do so by the affirmative vote of a majority of the members present; nor shall he speak more than once upon an amendment or motion to commit or postpone, and then not longer than ten minutes. But the House may, by consent of a majority of the members present, suspend the operation of this rule during any debate on any particular question before the House, or the Committee on Rules may bring in a special rule that shall be applicable to the debate on any bill.

Rule 11. Reading of Papers. When there is a call for the reading of a paper which has been read in the House, and there is objection to such reading, the question shall be determined by a majority vote of the members of the House present.

Rule 12. General Decorum. (a) The Speaker shall preserve order and decorum.

(b) Decency of speech shall be observed and personal reflection carefully avoided.

(c) While the Speaker is putting any question, or addressing the House, no person shall speak, stand up, walk out of or cross the House, nor when a member is speaking, entertain private discourse, stand up, or pass between the member and the Chair.

(d) Smoking shall not be allowed in the halls, lobbies, or the galleries while the House is in session; except that smoking may be permitted in the lobby in the rear of the Speaker's desk.

(b) When a motion is made it shall be stated by the Speaker, or, if written it shall be handed to the Chair and read aloud by the Speaker or Clerk before debate.

(c) After a motion has been stated by the Speaker or read by the Speaker or Clerk it shall be in possession of the House, but may be withdrawn before a decision or amendment, except in case of a motion to reconsider, which motion, when made by a member, shall be in possession of the House, and shall not be withdrawn without leave of the House.

Rule 14. Motions, Order of Precedence. (a) When in order and every motion is before the House, the question stands as follows:

Previous question

To adjourn

To lay on the table

To postpone indefinitely

To postpone to a day certain

To commit

To amend an amendment

To amend

To substitute

To pass the bill

(b) When a question is under debate, the following motions only shall be in order, and they shall have precedence in the order in which they stand arranged:

1. To adjourn
2. To lay on the table
3. To postpone indefinitely
4. To postpone to a day certain
5. To commit
6. To amend

No motion to lay on the table, to postpone indefinitely, to postpone to a day certain, to commit or to amend, being decided, shall be again allowed at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

Rule 15. Motion to Adjourn. (a) A motion to adjourn shall be seconded before the motion is put to the vote of the House.

(b) A motion to adjourn shall be decided without debate, and shall always be in order, except when the House is voting or some member is speaking; but a motion to adjourn shall not follow a motion to adjourn until debate or some other business of the House has intervened.

Rule 16. Motion to Table. (a) A motion to table shall be seconded before the motion is put to the vote of the House.

(b) A motion to table shall be decided without debate.

(c) A motion to table a bill shall constitute a motion to table the bill and all amendments thereto.

(d) A motion to table an amendment sent up from the floor shall not be construed as a motion to table the principal bill or any other amendment which has been offered thereto, and if such motion is carried, only the amendment shall lie upon the table.

Rule 17. Motion to reconsider. (a) When a motion has been once made and decided in the affirmative or negative, it is in order for any member of the majority to move for the reconsideration thereof, on the same or succeeding legislative day, unless it may have subsequently passed the Senate; provided, that unless the vote by which the motion was originally decided was taken by a call of the ayes and noes, any member may move to reconsider.

(b) A motion to reconsider shall be determined by a majority vote, except a motion to reconsider a motion tabling a motion to reconsider, which shall require a $\frac{2}{3}$ vote.

Rule 18. Motion to Postpone Indefinitely. A motion to postpone indefinitely is always in order except when a motion to adjourn or to lay on the table is before the House; however, after one motion to postpone indefinitely has been decided, another motion to postpone indefinitely shall not be allowed at the same stage of the bill or proposition. When a question has been postponed indefinitely, the same shall not be acted on again during the session, except upon a 2/3 vote.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

Rule 19. Previous Question. The previous question may be called only by the member submitting the report on the bill or other matter under consideration, by the member introducing the bill or other matter under consideration, or by the member in charge of the measure, who shall be designated by the chairman of the committee reporting the same to the House at the time the bill or other matter under consideration is reported to the House or taken up for consideration.

Rule 20. Form and effect of Previous Question. (a) The previous question shall be as follows: "Shall the main question now be put?" When the call for the previous question has been decided in the affirmative by a majority vote of the House, the "main question" is on the passage of the bill, resolution or other matter under consideration, including all pending amendments. If amendments are pending, the question shall be taken upon such amendments in inverse order.

(b) The call for the previous question shall preclude all motions, amendments and debate, except the motion to adjourn made prior to the determination of the previous question. Should the motion to adjourn be made prior to the determination of the previous question the House will vote first on the motion to adjourn and then, if the motion to adjourn fails, the members will vote on the call for the previous question.

(c) If the previous question is decided in the negative, the main question remains under debate.

VOTING

Rule 21. Stating Questions. (a) The Speaker shall rise to put a question.

(b) Questions shall be put in this form, namely, "Those in favor (as the question may be) will say 'Aye,'" and after the affirmative voice has been expressed, "Those opposed will say 'No'."

(c) Any member may call for a question to be divided into two or more propositions to be voted on separately, and the Speaker shall determine whether the question admits of such a division.

Rule 22. Determining Questions. Unless otherwise provided by the Constitution of North Carolina, all questions shall be determined by the members present and voting.

Rule 23. Voting by Division. Any member may call for a division of the members upon the question before the result of the vote has been announced. Upon a call for a division, the Speaker shall cause the number voting in the affirmative and in the negative to be determined. Upon a division and count of the House on any question, no member out of his seat shall be counted.

Rule 24. Roll Call Vote. Before a question is put, any member may call for the ayes and noes; and if the call is sustained by one fifth of the members present, the question shall be decided by the ayes and noes upon a roll call vote, taken alphabetically.

(b) Every member who is in the hall of the House when the question is put shall give his vote upon a call of the ayes and noes, unless the House for special reasons shall excuse him, and no application to be excused from voting or to explain a vote shall be entertained unless made before the call of the roll. The hall of the House includes the lobbies and offices connected with the hall.

Rule 25. Voting by Absentees. (a) No member shall vote on any question when he was not present when the question was put by the Speaker, except by the consent of the House.

(b) If any member is necessarily absent on temporary business of the House when a vote is taken upon any question, upon entering the House he shall be permitted on request, to vote, provided that the result shall not be affected thereby.

(c) When a member who is present is paired with an absent member, he shall, when his name is called on a roll call vote, announce the pair, which shall be recorded by the clerk.

STATEMENT BY MEMBER

Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, our people have given to us one of their most precious gifts—the right and responsibility to represent them in the people's representative democracy. Like you, Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I, too, am deeply grateful and humble to the people for allowing me to represent them in this General Assembly. Like you, I also want to give to the people all that belongs to the people. Realizing that introspection of each of us is governed by the way we see the light, I am stating here my own position as I see House Rule 29, subsection D. In my humble opinion this rule takes from the people; it deprives the people of their right to know. It is my opinion that this rule is a drawbridge between the people and the government. I feel that secrecy is not a healthy device for a Democracy. In the crucible of debate the fire of inquiry belongs to the people, the right to know. In this hypnotic tree that secrecy offers, the comfort is in its shade but in its roots live the children of heresy—"Have you heard?" and "Do you know?" A tree nourished in the soil of the lie and the half-lie.

Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, we cannot afford to plant this tree of darkness in the midst of our rules. I am convinced that open covenants, openly arrived at, as enumerated by our late President Woodrow Wilson is the ideal, the practical and the enlightened way for a responsible democratic society to move forward.

Therefore, I move that subsection D of Rule 29 be stricken from the rules.

(Signed) Clarence E. Stone, Jr.

Amend Rule 48 by striking out subsection (c) thereof.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message is received from the Senate transmitting the following resolution which is read the first time and disposed of as follows:

S. R. 118, a joint resolution honoring the life and memory of Robert March Hanes.

On motion of Representative Gobble the rules are suspended and the resolution placed on its immediate passage.

Passed first reading.

Rules suspended.

Passes its second and third readings and is ordered enrolled.

JOINT RESOLUTION HONORING THE LIFE AND MEMORY OF ROBERT MARCH HANES

WHEREAS, on the 10th day of March, 1959, there ended the life span which began for Robert March Hanes on September 22, 1890; and

WHEREAS, The General Assembly of North Carolina and its several members are profoundly saddened by his passing but are thankful that we knew him, are shocked that his work is over but are proud of his many accomplishments, are stunned by the loss of such a leader but are confident that we, and all of the people of North Carolina, will complete his unfinished tasks and will move onward and upward, warmed by the memory of his friendship and inspired by his great example; and

WHEREAS, from the time when he volunteered for military service in the United States Army in 1917, continuously through his self-sacrificing and physically heroic last great achievement, the launching of the hopeful Research Triangle program at the memorable meeting in Raleigh on January 9, 1959, Bob Hanes devoted his great talents and his abounding energy to serving his State and his Nation, building people and building things; and

WHEREAS, we are proud of his great achievements in banking. We are proud that he was President of the American Bankers Association. We are proud that he served his Nation as Director of Economic Affairs for Germany after World War II. Especially are we proud that he served as a member of the General Assembly of North Carolina, in the House of Representatives in 1929 and 1931 and in the Senate in 1933. We are proud of his many other splendid services, too numerous to be set forth here. We are proud that he was the man that he was.

When he entered a room he lighted it.

When he spoke to a man he lifted him.

When he took on a job or accepted a responsibility he put into it every thing which he had.

He left an imprint upon every man whom he met.

Something of himself went into every thing which he built—and forever will remain.

He was a man of keen intellect, powerful driving force, dynamic personality, complete, outspoken honesty and superb courage. He was thoughtful and considerate of others. He loved people and people loved him. He was that rarest of human beings, an unselfish man, one who put others above himself. Truly he furnished to all who knew him a shining mark toward which they could strive—a man who had overcome self-centeredness.

And what he became in the short period of sixty-eight years will go on forever. He will lift many people and affect many things. Bob Hanes became a part of every person who knew, respected and loved him. Every such person is the better for that. Through them and through their succeeding generations he will remain an uplifting force. As long as there is a North Carolina, Bob Hanes will be a part of it. And so he will go on.

We make ourselves better, we serve future generations, we serve our State, by honoring his memory and by resolving that it shall be kept fresh: NOW, THEREFORE,

Be it resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring:

Section 1. There is hereby expressed profound sorrow at the passing of Robert March Hanes, great pride in his accomplishments, joy that he was the man that he was, gratitude for the services which he rendered to his people and to his State, and conviction that his good works will go on.

Section 2. This resolution, together with the addendum attached thereto, setting forth biographical data of Robert March Hanes and a list of some of his services and accomplishments shall be incorporated in the public records of this General Assembly as a tribute and expression of respect to his memory, and a copy thereof shall be furnished to the members of his immediate family.

Section 3. This resolution shall become effective upon its adoption.

SPECIAL MESSAGE

OF

GOVERNOR LUTHER H. HODGES

TO THE

NORTH CAROLINA GENERAL ASSEMBLY

THURSDAY, MARCH 12, 1959

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the General Assembly of North Carolina:

I thank you for your courtesy in permitting me to appear again before a Joint Session of the General Assembly. I am indeed grateful for this opportunity to present for your consideration my recommendations on the revision of the State Constitution, including, of course, the Article dealing with the administration of justice in North Carolina.

The distinguished 15-member Constitutional Study Commission, which was authorized by you in 1957, has completed its work after more than a year of very intensive study and its report has been submitted for your consideration. The members of this Commission deserve our warm and sincere thanks for the good service they have rendered our State.

It was in the year 1776 that the Provincial Congress of North Carolina ratified our State's first Constitution. Under that first document, the Governor, Council of State, and judges were all elected by the General Assembly.

In 1835, several basic amendments to our Constitution were submitted to a vote of the people and were approved. These provided for election of the Governor by the people, and also made fundamental changes in legislative representation and reapportionment.

The year 1868 marks the next milestone in the historical development of our State Constitution. Following the Civil War and while our State was still undergoing "active reconstruction" a completely revised Constitution was approved by vote of the people. The 1868 Constitution is basically the one which we have today, and which is the subject of our present study and consideration.

Since the adoption of the 1868 Constitution, 158 proposed amendments have been submitted to a vote of the people, and 135 of them have been approved. It is not surprising, therefore, to find that this patchwork of amendments has resulted in considerable inconsistency and obscurity in language. In addition, some detailed provisions of our Constitution are now obsolete.

The Constitutional Study Commission informs us that early in its deliberations it reached the decision that a complete revision of the Constitution should be drafted and submitted to the General Assembly. This was done primarily for purposes of language clarification, and the suggested revision does not contemplate, by any means, a sweeping and wholesale revision of our basic form of government.

I have given very careful study to the report of the Constitution Study Commission, and am in complete agreement that we need to revise our Constitution and I sincerely hope you will agree.

ARTICLE II—LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

One of the most important problems to be considered in any revision of our Constitution has to do with legislative apportionment. Our present constitutional provisions governing membership and apportionment for the House of Representatives and providing for 120 members date from the year 1835. Then, North Carolina had only sixty-five counties. Then, fifty-five House seats were available for allocation on the basis of population after allotting each county at least one representative, thereby giving an effective voice to the factor of population in that branch of our General Assembly. Today, 124 years later, we have one hundred counties in the State, with the same number of representatives and with the same allocation formula used in 1835. This means, after allocation of one representative per county, there remain only twenty seats to be apportioned among the larger counties on the basis of population.

Our Senate membership of fifty members also originated in 1835, but it was not until 1868 that the provision for our present system of districts, containing "equal proportions" of the State's population, was placed in our Constitution. Therefore, at the present time the Senate, by reason of our constitutional provision, is intended to give effective representation to the factor of population; and by reason of the existence of one hundred counties and the limited number of representatives to be apportioned thereto, our House, under the Constitution, gives emphasis to representation on the basis of geographical units rather than population.

Neither Senate nor House representation has been reapportioned since 1941. Since then, the population of North Carolina has increased from approximately three and one-half million to more than an estimated four million six hundred thousand. And we are confronted with the undesirable situation in which, because of its failure to act, the General Assembly itself is subject to the charge that it has ignored a clear and plain requirement of the Constitution.

There are many ways of reapportionment. I personally would not object to adding to the number of senators and/or representatives but I am willing to leave that to you. I do want to say, with all emphasis possible, you should take action of some kind that will definitely and continually insure reapportionment when due. This is your duty!

ARTICLE III—EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

The Study Commission report properly provides for succession in the Executive Branch but does not discuss the constitutional provision prohibiting the Governor from serving more than one consecutive term. Based on my own experience of working on a long-range state program, I think a governor should be allowed a second consecutive term if the people vote to return him to office. Under no conditions should such a change, if made, apply to me but I hope you will look seriously at the second term and at the lack of veto power. It is somewhat difficult to understand why our State is the only one in the Union in which the governor lacks the veto power.

ARTICLE V—REVENUE, TAXATION AND PUBLIC DEBT

The Constitutional Study Commission recommends revision of the language of Article V in accordance with the report of the Tax Study Commission. As I said in my biennial message:

"There is no greater fiscal obligation upon government than to insure that our tax laws are equitable and that unjust weight does not fall upon any individual taxpayer nor upon any particular group of taxpayers."

This suggested revision for tax administration improvement is sound and should be adopted.

ARTICLE VII—EDUCATION

Our present Constitution contains language to the effect that "the General Assembly . . . shall provide . . . for a general and uniform system of public schools." This language was placed in our State Constitution in 1868 and through these many years has provided a sound and enduring beacon light for the people of North Carolina. It has meant that the people of our State were interested in education for the children of this State, throughout the length and breadth of the State. It has kept before us a high ideal, a worthy objective, and a practical guide. It has meant that the General Assembly would take appropriate action to promote and encourage education in all corners of the State, in all sections, and in all places. Historically, this constitutional provision has not been interpreted to mean that as a physical fact every locality in the State should have exactly the same public school facilities and exactly the same level of achievement. This has not been the case because historically the support and maintenance of our public schools began with the localities themselves. However, the mandate which has been constant on the General Assembly has been that educational opportunity and authority would, under law, be available to all localities and counties throughout the State.

The written report of the Constitutional Commission in its explanation of the suggested deletion of this requirement states that the phrase should be removed "as a possible source of conflict with the local option provisions" which were adopted in 1956.

Since the release of this report the Attorney General has advised that there is no overriding legal reason for deleting the "general and uniform" provision. Based upon this view of the legal question, the Chairman of the Constitutional Study Commission has also stated that he believes all or most of the individual members of the Commission would prefer not to delete this language in the absence of compelling legal reason to do so. I have previously made public my own position on this matter, and simply reiterate that in my view the provision for "general and uniform system of public schools" should be retained in our Constitution.

ARTICLE IV—JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT

In my opinion, the most important aspect of constitutional revision concerns the judicial branch of our government and the vital need for improvement in the administration of justice.

As you know, I am not a lawyer, but from the beginning of my service as Governor of the State I have had a great interest in our courts and in all aspects of the administration of justice. As Governor, I have constantly been impressed with the great importance of the judicial branch of our government. The operation of our courts, the actions of our judges, solicitors, and all other officers directly connected with our courts have a daily impact on the citizens of North Carolina, in every community of the State.

In speaking to the North Carolina Bar Association Annual Convention at Asheville in 1955, I expressed to them my conviction that the lawyers of North Carolina should take the lead in making a thorough and objective study of our courts, and based upon their findings, then take the lead to show our State what should be done to improve the administration of justice in North Carolina.

The lawyers of this State, acting through their State Bar Association, accepted this challenge. By the time of the next annual meeting of the North Carolina Bar Association in 1956, we were fortunate in securing a sizeable grant in private foundation funds to carry forward this work.

Since 1955, we have had in North Carolina the most thorough study of our courts in the history of our State, and one of the most complete and thorough studies of the courts of any state that has been made at any time, anywhere in our Nation.

The fact that it was felt we should undertake a careful appraisal of the organization and administration of our courts did not mean then and still does not mean that we do not appreciate the good service which our lawyers, judges, and courts in general have rendered to North Carolina in the past and are continuing to render. It was simply recognized that we had, and still have, some serious shortcomings which ought to be corrected.

May I make this further observation on the background of the court study which was conducted by the committee of the North Carolina Bar Association. The leaders of our Bar early came to the conclusion that any effective action to improve the administration of courts in our State must have the active interest and participation of lay citizens, who would work with the lawyers and the judges and other court officials. Accordingly, when the basic research studies were being completed and ready for consideration by the court study committee in 1957, the President of the North Carolina Bar Association appointed an equal number of laymen to work on the committee with the lawyer members.

From the time that this great project was undertaken in 1955, every effort was made to seek and obtain the assistance and advice of the Bench and Bar of this State, in first discovering the day-to-day working of the courts and ascertaining the problems which exist, and then in considering the various points of view as to how best to remedy the faults which were found to exist. I am told that every recommendation which was made by this committee in its final report is the result of suggestions made by some lawyer or some judge in North Carolina. In short, what has been put forward for our consideration is not something handed to us from another state or another country, but something evolved, considered, discussed, and presented by our own people. In turn, the court study committee has itself conducted its studies and its deliberations in full public view. Our people have had the opportunity to become acquainted with first the tentative and then the final conclusions of the committee, and have had the opportunity to consider and to discuss with their neighbors and fellow citizens that which has been considered and discussed by the committee itself.

What are some of the facts and some of the problems which have been brought to light during the course of this careful study of our courts?

First, looking generally at the total picture in our State, we see one Supreme Court, 100 Superior Courts, 256 Recorder-type Courts, 144 Mayors' Courts, and 940 Justice of the Peace Courts. These all add up to a total of at least 1,441 courts at all levels and of all jurisdictions. Of greatest impact, however, in considering the total court picture is the fact that we cannot with complete accuracy say that we have a judicial "system". About the only thing that these 1,441 courts have in common is that each exercises some share of the judicial authority of the State.

Let us look at the financing of our 1,441 separate courts. For the State as a whole, we have learned that the counties spend on the courts approximately $700,000 more than they collect in fees and costs. We have learned that for the State as a whole, municipalities have operated their courts at an annual profit of almost $900,000. This means, unfortunately, that many of our municipal courts are operated as profit-making enterprises, in that costs and fees are arbitrarily set in excess of reasonably anticipated expenditures for the operation of these courts. In a recent year, the Justice of the Peace Courts in North Carolina handled over 88,000 criminal cases, in which their fee was not collected unless the defendant was found guilty. There is but one characterization of this aspect of the Justice of the Peace Court: as a system, this is not justice; this is a travesty of justice.

We know that, from the standpoint of organization, administration, and questionable financing, our greatest problems are found in the courts below the Superior Court level. We have able and outstanding Superior Court judges and for the most part we know that our courts at this level are conducted in a way to justify our praise and commendation. Yet, we must also recognize that there are some administrative and organizational problems at the Superior Court level. It is a fact, for example, that there is a growing backlog of cases awaiting trial in the Superior Courts. In the fiscal year 1957-58, the number of civil cases on the docket of 52 Superior Courts on which data was obtained increased by 1,866. Upon a detailed check of the records of 44 Superior Courts, it was found that of a total of 12,276 civil cases then awaiting trial, 62% had been pending more than one year, and 43% had been pending more than two years. Of the 6,179 criminal cases pending in the 100 Superior Courts on January 1, 1957, approximately 20% had been pending more than a year. In one solicitorial district in North Carolina, the number of criminal cases pending increased by 300 in the fiscal year 1957-58.

Much court time is lost and delay in handling litigation is inevitable under our present system of attempting to fix Superior Court terms by statute two or more years in advance. This condition is aggravated by the lack of systematic calendaring practices in many Superior Courts and by the frequent granting of continuances in civil cases. In 1957, 63% of the civil and mixed terms in our Superior Courts used less than a full five-day week. In 1957-58, only 75% of the scheduled days of civil court in the Superior Courts of North Carolina were actually used. Yet, the number of pending cases continues to increase.

A majority of our Recorder-type Courts now in active operation were established under one of the present dozen "general laws" which authorized establishment of these type courts. Yet, these courts in fact vary widely in every respect; in the manner of selection of judges, solicitors and clerks; in civil and criminal jurisdiction; in procedures; in the fees and costs which are charged; and in the availability of jury trial. For a defendant who pleads guilty to a minor criminal charge, costs in these inferior courts vary from $7.00 in one court to $28.00 in another. Quite often, the fees charged in some of these courts have no relationship whatever to the actual cost of the case being tried.

In 1957, North Carolina had approximately 940 active Justice of the Peace Courts, and 144 active Mayors' Courts of comparable jurisdiction. In 20 counties in our State, these were the only courts available below the Superior Court level. Unquestionably, many of these type courts are conducted in a dignified and efficient way, and perform a most useful public service in being available for the trial of petty civil and criminal cases. Yet, we know that in all too many instances the Justice of the Peace Courts are operated primarily as bill-collecting agencies, exercising the power and dignity of the State of North Carolina for this purpose and doing this so well that some Justices of the Peace in this State earn incomes larger than the salary of a Superior Court judge. The almost complete lack of any reliable record-keeping and reporting by Justice of the Peace Courts, the casual manner in which many of these courts conduct judicial proceedings, the existence of a system under which the presiding magistrate is paid in criminal cases only if he finds the defendant guilty, all add up to an overwhelming indictment of the system. And the State Association of Justices of the Peace has made some recommendations for improvements.

We now come to the question of what should we do to eliminate those serious problems which we know exist in the administration of our courts.

These are objectives which have been pinpointed by the Bar Association Committee, and which merit our most careful consideration:

(1) Combine all North Carolina courts into one organization to bring uniformity and coordination to the administration of justice.

(2) Make the Chief Justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court the executive head of this statewide court system, and by thus pinpointing administrative responsibility in the operation of our courts, enable the people of the State to get maximum results with minimum cost and loss of time to taxpayers and litigants.

(3) Add laymen to the Judicial Council, which is now composed of lawyers only, and make it both an advisory body to the executive head of the court system as well as a liaison agency between the courts and the people of the State.

(4) Give the Supreme Court the power to make the rules for the mechanics of operating the courts and for trying cases in them, and the responsibility for keeping these rules up to date.

(5) Provide for a uniform method of selecting judges and trial magistrates for the local courts, below the Superior Court level, throughout the entire State, to help insure unbiased and prompt judgment in all cases brought before such courts.

(6) Put the selection of citizens for jury service into the hands of sworn jury commissioners who will perform their duties under the supervision of the Superior Court Judge, with the purpose of insuring that juries will always consist of responsible, capable, and conscientious citizens.

We can obtain these laudable objectives by appropriate revision of Article IV of our State Constitution. As you know, sometime ago the Bar Association Court Study Committee released its recommendations, together with a suggested draft of the judiciary article of our Constitution, and this has been widely distributed and publicized over the State. In addition, the Constitutional Study Commission has also given very careful consideration to the problem of our courts and also suggests for your consideration a revision of the Judiciary Article of our Constitution.

I shall not take the time to compare these two suggested drafts in detail, but will state clearly my view on selection of judges. Neither the report of the Bar Association Committee nor the report of the Constitutional Study Commission recommends any change in the method of selecting the Judges of the Supreme Court and the Superior Courts, and as I have said before, I think we should continue to elect the judges for these courts.

As for judges of the district courts, I basically favor their election, but as some are now elected and some appointed, I would leave the precise method of selection to the General Assembly. I agree with both study groups that the Justices of the Peace (or trial magistrates or commissioners) should be appointed.

Both the Bar Association Committee and the Constitutional Study Commission reached the conclusion that we need a substantial revision in the Judiciary Article of the Constitution. In evaluating the specific approaches we may take on court organization and administration, I would like to give special emphasis to one fact. The State of North Carolina has a continuing and inescapable obligation to everyone of her citizens and indeed to every person who comes within her borders—to provide a system of courts, in every one of which justice may be had promptly, at reasonable cost to the parties.

This obligation, the State cannot avoid. Nor can we in good faith pass this duty on to the counties and municipalities and then criticize our counties and municipalities for administering their courts in the light of their local interests.

There may have been a time, and perhaps not too long ago, when our courts were largely a local concern—when a breakdown in the administration of justice in a given court affected very few people except those of the town or county in which the court was located. But certainly today, with our extensive business and commercial activities of state-wide and interstate character, with our highly mobile population, with the large number of visitors coming into and through the State, it is a matter of the most profound concern to the State as a whole when any single court fails to meet high standards of judicial administration.

If we are to meet this obligation of the State to provide for the just, uniform, and efficient administration of justice, we must view all of the courts as part of the single judicial system through which this obligation is met. At the same time, this system must be one in which the people of the State at the local level will continue to take a vital interest and in which they will have a share of responsibility for making it work properly.

There is no officer or agency of our State government with clear responsibility for continuously observing and examining our entire court system, for taking action to remedy administrative defects which are found, and doing so in the light of needs of the whole system of courts as well as the individual specific needs of a single court. If real improvement is to be made in the courts of North Carolina, this responsibility must be constitutionally vested somewhere. And there are only two agencies in which such responsibility can be appropriately vested, the Supreme Court of North Carolina or the General Assembly. Both are elected by the people. Both are responsible to the people. Both bodies now exercise vast powers which greatly affect the lives and property of all citizens. Both do so responsibly and ably. The people of North Carolina trust the General Assembly and the Supreme Court. The question which confronts us must, therefore, be answered not in terms of which of these branches of our government we would trust more or less, but which can carry out this responsibility of judicial administration most effectively.

Under our fundamental philosophy of the separation of powers, it would seem that the responsibility for judicial administration should be placed in the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court is almost continuously in session and it is intimately and solely concerned with the business of the courts. As our highest appellate court, and by the nature of its duties, the members of that court think in terms of the statewide interest. It seems to me that the Supreme Court, with proper administrative help, on the basis of all practical measurements, is better fitted to carry out this task of court administration than is the General Assembly.

Without attempting to say precisely what item of detail should be written into the Constitution, it is my opinion that we should vest the responsibility for administration of a unified court system in the Supreme Court of North Carolina. If the Supreme Court is to have responsibility for the effective administration of the court system, it must also have essential authority to carry out this responsibility.

I realize that vesting such authority and responsibility for judicial administration in our highest appellate court is open to the objection that when this is done by the Constitution itself, the legislative branch is thereafter restricted, if through action or inaction by the judiciary, such an approach is ineffective, or found to be generally unacceptable to our people.

If this delegation of responsibility, without recourse except by amendment of the Constitution, be deemed unwise, it is my recommendation that we vest this responsibility in the judiciary, subject to the constitutional provision that any authority with respect to judicial administration vested in the Supreme Court by this revision may be exercised by the General Assembly itself, by a three-fifths vote of the Senate and the House of Representatives, without a vote of the people.

Let me emphasize that under the recommendations submitted by the Bar Association Court Study Committee there are many subjects with respect to the judicial branch on which the General Assembly retains its present full control. The General Assembly would determine the number of Superior Court Judges and Solicitors, District Court Judges and Solicitors, and Justices of the Peace (or trial commissioners or magistrates, whichever term is used), and would fix their compensation. The General Assembly would fix all court fees and costs, except those of the appellate court. The number and boundaries of the judicial and solicitorial districts would continue to be fixed by the General Assembly. The General Assembly would have over-all budgetary supervision of the courts, as it should; and would continue to possess adequate and effective authority to take all appropriate action with respect to basic policy matters in the operation of our courts.

There is one other important aspect of court administration which does not involve revision of the Constitution. A few days ago, in response to your specific request at the 1957 Session, the Court Study Committee submitted to you a separate report on the position of Superior Court Solicitors. That report recommends, among other things, that by statutory enactment Superior Court Solicitors be made full-time officials.

Each of the 21 Superior Court Solicitors throughout the State receives the same pay and allowances from the State, yet the amount of work they are called upon to do in prosecuting the criminal docket varies widely from one district to another. One solicitorial district contains two counties, another district contains ten. The number of days of criminal court which must be attended by the solicitor varied from 68 days in one district to 214 in another, during the same year. The number of cases disposed of varied from 498 in one district to 1,666 in another district in the same year.

Aside from the disparity in work-load distribution among our Superior Court Solicitors, which should be re-examined periodically, it seems to me that the time has come when our solicitors should devote full time to their public duties. Inevitably, there is a potential conflict of interest present when, if nothing else, the time and energy demands of a private law practice compete directly with the demand of public service.

I am sure you will want to give very careful consideration to the study and recommendations on the solicitors, and I urge that you take action to make them full-time officials and do whatever else necessary to make this important position more effective.

CONCLUSION

The revision of our State Constitution confronts us with a serious and challenging task. This is a task demanding and deserving of our very best labors. It is a task which demands thorough consideration and thorough discussion. Decisions will not and should not be reached in haste or in such a way that valid and varied points of view are not appropriately considered. I have every confidence that this General Assembly will rise to this great task, and will revise our 1868 Constitution in keeping with the times and to prepare for North Carolina's great future. I believe that the next few weeks will provide you ample time in which to consider these revisions and make your decisions on the Constitution you will submit to a vote of the people. I believe that 1959 should, and will, take its place, along with 1776, 1835, and 1868, as a milestone in the constitutional history of North Carolina.

Thank you, and may God bless each of you as you continue your service for our State.

STATEMENT BY MEMBER

Re: House Bill 121

On the second reading of this bill as amended I voted "No". At that time in the heat of debate and many amendments, I was under the impression the bill had been so weakened by amendments that its effectiveness had been lost.

After further consideration and consultation with my constituents I feel the bill as amended has merit and ought to be passed.

Therefore, taking advantage of the legislative requirement that a bill must be read three times before passage, I vote "Aye" on the third reading.

(Signed) Reid of Surry

ADDRESS

by

EMERY B. DENNY

Associate Justice

North Carolina Supreme Court

Presentation of portrait of Governor J. Melville Broughton to the State of North Carolina, April 23, 1959, 8:00 p.m., House of Representatives, Raleigh.

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Governor Hodges, members of the General Assembly, and friends of Governor Broughton:

I am honored to have the opportunity to talk to you on this occasion, and to have the high privilege on behalf of the family of Governor Broughton to present his portrait to the State of North Carolina. The portrait was painted by Mr. Joe King of Winston-Salem, a distinguished artist and a former member of the General Assembly from Forsyth County. We are glad indeed to have him with us tonight.

Joseph Melville Broughton, who was to become the State's thirty-first elected governor and the first Raleigh native to occupy the Governor's Mansion, was born November 17, 1888. His forbears came from England and settled in eastern North Carolina in Colonial times. The first member of his family came to Wake County more than a century ago. His father, for whom Broughton was named, was for many years head of J. M. Broughton and Company, a real estate firm. His father was a prominent Baptist layman, who, with his brother, Needham B. Broughton, organized the Tabernacle Baptist Church here in Raleigh, one of the leading Baptist churches in North Carolina.

Fortunately, young Broughton was given the opportunity to obtain an excellent education. He attended the public schools in Raleigh and graduated from Hugh Morson Academy. He then entered and graduated from Wake Forest College where he also studied law. He was admitted to the Bar in 1910. He then accepted the position as principal of Bunn High School in Franklin County, which position he held for two years; and was employed thereafter for a short time as a staff reporter on the Winston-Salem Journal. He continued his legal education at Harvard University before entering the practice of law in Raleigh in 1914. From that time until he became a member of the Senate of the United States on December 31, 1948, he practiced law continuously in Raleigh and nearby counties, except while he was governor.

It is not my purpose to undertake to give in detail all the accomplishments of Governor Broughton as a distinguished lawyer, citizen, and public official, but I shall refer to a number of them which particularly reveal his attitude toward public questions in which he was deeply concerned. If we refresh our minds by recalling what a man stood for, what he advocated and fought for as a citizen and as a public servant, we can readily understand what manner of man he was.

Broughton built and retained a lucrative law practice. He was an able and distinguished member of his profession. His common sense, his knowledge of the law, and his integrity, coupled with his ability as an advocate won for him the respect and admiration of the members of the Bench and Bar, which is one of the most coveted achievements in the life of a lawyer. He was an experienced business man; in addition to his law practice, he had a financial interest in a number of firms and corporations, and, for many years, owned and operated an extensive farm near Raleigh.

Although he was a busy man, he took the time to assist in the development of the civic, political, and religious life of his community and State. He wanted to be a part of those useful organizations which depend upon the cooperation and support of public-minded citizens for their maintenance and the attainment of their objectives.

As proof of his interest in such activities, he served a term as president of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce, and was a member of the Raleigh School Board for seven years. For more than twenty-eight years he was a trustee of the Olivia Raney Library in Raleigh, and he served as president of the Wake County and the North Carolina Bar Associations. He was a trustee of Wake Forest College for thirty years; he was also a trustee of Shaw University for thirty-one years, during which time he served that institution as general counsel. From 1941 until his death, he was a trustee of the University of North Carolina. He helped organize and establish the Engineering Foundation at State College and served as its first president from October 14, 1944 until his death.

Broughton was not only a loyal churchman, he was a man of great faith. He demonstrated his love for his church and his faith in God by giving of his substance, his efforts and his time to his church. He served as superintendent of the Tabernacle Baptist Sunday School from 1913 until 1941. In addition to his duties as Sunday School superintendent, he taught a Men's Bible class in his church for nearly twenty-five years.

The aggregate of the services he rendered to the organizations and institutions I have just enumerated totals more than one hundred and fifty years—services for which his only reward was his sense of pride and satisfaction in the giving of his services to aid in the growth and development of those agencies and institutions.

It is not strange or unusual that a man who possessed the ability, the character, and the qualities of leadership demonstrated by Broughton, should be chosen for a place of political leadership by the people of his State. As the nominee of the Democratic Party for governor, in 1940, he made a vigorous fight, not only for the nominees on the Democratic ticket for the State and local offices, but for President Roosevelt in his bid for a third term.

In view of world conditions at that time, and the opposition to a third term, many of the political leaders of the State felt that the Democratic majority would be very small. In this State, in 1940, a rather formidable and well financed organization, consisting of Democrats, was created to support the Republican nominee for President. Many Democrats felt that the Democratic nominee for governor should denounce this organization, but Broughton did not share this view. He felt it was for the best interest of the party and for the people of North Carolina not to inject any bitterness into the campaign, or to say or do anything that might estrange these voters in future elections. His decision proved to be a wise one. President Roosevelt received the largest majority ever given to a candidate for the presidency of the United States by the people of North Carolina, and Broughton received the largest majority ever given a candidate for governor in the history of this State.

Broughton served as a member of the State Senate in 1927 and 1929. In the 1929 session he introduced and sponsored the Australian Ballot Act; and served as Chairman of the Joint Committee of the House and Senate, which drafted our present Workmen's Compensation Act. While he was a member of the State Senate he tried unsuccessfully to get the public school term increased from six to eight months. However, when he became governor the term had been extended to eight months; whereupon, he recommended that it be further extended to nine months and that the twelfth grade be added. The General Assembly adopted both recommendations. Likewise, under his leadership, equalization of the salaries of white and colored teachers was fully effectuated.

Many of the educational leaders of the State said during the Broughton administration that he had done more for education in North Carolina than any governor since Aycock.

Governor Broughton recommended to the General Assembly in 1941 an appropriation of $100,000 for each year of the biennium, to aid in the establishment and maintenance of public libraries in the State. The appropriation was made and has been increased from time to time. These appropriations have made it possible to extend county-wide library service, which existed in only twenty-eight counties in 1940, to ninety-four counties at the present time.

It was apparent by the time Broughton assumed his duties as governor that the United States was to become the "Arsenal of Democracy"; before the end of his first year in office our country had been attacked at Pearl Harbor. Naturally, our State government was called upon to assume an important part in the war effort and to organize for Civilian Defense. North Carolina was compelled to reduce her program of construction and expansion to a minimum.

But, notwithstanding the additional duties he had to assume as a war governor, Broughton did not neglect his legislative program. During the primary and general election campaigns, he told the people of North Carolina that it would be necessary to retain the sales tax in order to meet the obligations of the State; but, in conformity with previous pledges of his party, he committed himself to the removal of the sales tax on food for home consumption. The General Assembly promptly carried out his recommendation in this respect. He likewise committed himself to the establishment of a retirement plan for all State employees, including teachers; an increase in compensation for teachers; increased appropriations for the mental institutions of the State, and for the consolidation of the management of the mental institutions under a single board of directors; he also requested and obtained increased aid to agriculture, and a more adequate health program.

He inaugurated and championed the program that led to the creation of our Medical Care Commission and Good Health Program, to provide more hospitals for the people of the State, for training more doctors and nurses and medical technicians, and for the expansion of the two-year Medical School at Chapel Hill into a four-year Medical School. This constituted one of the major achievements of the Broughton administration. Many outstanding citizens of the State were actively interested in this program and rendered conspicuous service in procuring its adoption. There were others, however, who opposed it, and at times the opposition was not only formidable but intensely bitter.

It is safe to say that had it not been for Governor Broughton's affective and aggressive leadership at that crucial time, the program might have been indefinitely delayed and as yet unfulfilled. It is a source of pride that this program has been firmly established and expanded under the leadership of his successors.

A fine spirit of cooperation existed between Governor Broughton and the members of the General Assembly in 1941 and 1943. As a result of this cooperation, all of the major recommendations made by Governor Broughton to the General Assembly, without a single exception, were approved and the necessary legislation enacted to carry out his recommendations, including the reapportionment of the House and redistricting the Senatorial districts.

By reason of reduced expenditures for the normal expansion of State activities on the one hand, and increased business activity growing out of war conditions on the other, the State's revenue was unexpectedly large during the Broughton administration. By the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1944, the State's surplus, exclusive of the Highway surplus, was nearly $58,000,000—more than $7,000,000 in excess of the amount necessary to retire the General Fund indebtedness of the State. In January 1945, when his successor took the oath of office, there was more surplus money in the State Treasury than had ever been before.

Broughton was extremely fortunate in his family life. On December 14, 1916, he married Miss Alice Harper Willson. Through the years she was a tremendous asset as well as an inspiration to her husband. Mrs. Broughton is one of the most attractive and charming women ever to grace our Executive Mansion as First Lady. While she served as First Lady, the Executive Mansion was the center of extensive entertaining. Many distinguished visitors to North Carolina, as well as representatives of patriotic, civic, business, social, and religious groups, including many servicemen and women, were the recipients of the warm hospitality of the Broughtons. We are delighted to have Mrs. Broughton and her four fine children with us tonight, two of whom, Melville, Jr. and Robert, are following in the footsteps of their distinguished father as prominent members of the Wake County Bar.

Governor Broughton was one of the ablest public speakers in North Carolina in his generation. During his term of office he was invited twice to address the National Governors' Conference and was invited to address several regional conferences of governors. His reputation as a public speaker spread far beyond his native State. During the last seven or eight years of his life he was invited to address Democratic Conventions, Chambers of Commerce, Bar Associations, Farmers' Conventions, Manufacturers' Associations, and similar groups in fifteen or twenty states. Governor Broughton was the first Southerner to speak at Gettysburg on a Memorial Day from the spot where Lincoln delivered his famous Gettysburg address. Copies of his speech on that occasion, May 30, 1944, have been preserved in the Archives of the State of Pennsylvania and in the Archives of the Gettysburg Battlefield Commission.

Broughton had a fine sense of humor and was a superb storyteller. In June 1941, he spoke at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Building and Loan League at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. He said, "I am here really in fulfillment of a promise I made, it must have been a year ago, almost following the last session of your body. (Your diligent * * * executive secretary was so insistent) even before I was elected governor he had my promise to come here. Of course, I would promise anything then. I was considered North Carolina's most promising man, last year. They even tell me that in church on one occasion a young lady sang that appropriate song, at a wedding, 'Oh, Promise Me', and I rose and said, 'Certainly madam'."

He liked to tell the story of an actual incident that occurred on one occasion while he was governor. A delegation of negroes, citizens from Greensboro, called on him, having with them a man who had been sentenced to prison for some eight months and they wanted him "excused" from the sentence. They undertook to make out a case that would justify a pardon, which they did with great skill. In order to show that they were not the kind of men who condoned crime, the chairman of the delegation, who was a prominent Negro Episcopal minister, gave the church affiliation of each member as he presented them; the first was chairman of the Board of Stewards of the Methodist Church; the next was an Elder in the Presbyterian Church; another a Vestryman in the Episcopal Church, and so on. When he had finished, Governor Broughton said, "Reverend, that's a very fine showing that you made, but you know, I'm a Baptist, and I observe that you haven't presented in your delegation a member of the Baptist Church". The Episcopal minister said, "Oh, your Honor, the prisoner is a Baptist".

He never used his sense of humor or his stories at the expense of the serious portions of his messages. He had the rare ability to use his stories in such manner as to illustrate and emphasize the points he wanted to make.

Governor Broughton looked forward to the post-war era with high hope and with the firm conviction that America and her allies would win World War II, and that America would take her rightful place in world leadership, if we did not succumb to reaction. On July 7, 1944, in speaking before the Executives Club of Chicago, he said: "The hope of America and of democracy lies in progress and not in reaction. Retrenchment where necessary must be made. But it must not be retrenchment or reaction that fixes the hopes and aspirations of mankind in molds of the past. Free enterprise in America must be restored and preserved. It must be free to grow but not to monopolize; free to expand but not to exploit either labor or the public. * * * Fear, pessimism, small-mindedness, isolationism, and planning merely for things as they were will lead only to reaction, depression, and defeat. But a courageous America, animated by the zeal of the pioneer and inspired by the heroic achievements of these stirring days, will be able to translate the exalted spirit of victorious war into sustaining strength of a greater America. Such an America, cooperating fully with the other nations of good will in the honest and determined purpose to preserve peace, can and must lead in the effort toward a better and happier world".

As evidence of the esteem in which Governor Broughton was held by the members of his party in North Carolina, he was unanimously endorsed by the Democratic State Convention in 1944 for nominee for Vice President of the United States. He was nominated for that position at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago. He was given the solid support of the North Carolina delegation; and of the sixteen nominees for Vice President, Broughton stood sixth on the first ballot.

At the time of Senator Broughton's death, sixteen members of the United States Senate had been governors of their respective states while Broughton was governor of North Carolina. Among these was Senator O'Connor of Maryland. On March 7, 1949, the day after Senator Broughton died, Senator O'Connor, in the Senate of the United States, among other things, said, "From the first day of contact with J. Melville Broughton, shortly after his accession to the governorship of his great state in 1941, I was deeply impressed with his outstanding personal and official qualifications. His devotion to the public interests, his thorough knowledge of the law, combined with the eminent good sense of his interpretation of the statutes; his remarkable grasp of the problems of agriculture, of business, and of industry, in all of which he had wide experience; his high ideals both as to the purpose and aims of government and, even more particularly as to his own life and conduct, set him apart, in my mind, as a gentleman whose friendship would be a true treasure and whose consultations and advice would ever furnish a sure guide.

"As an indication of the deep impression which Senator Broughton made upon representatives from every section of the country, this instance may be cited: During a session of the governors' conferences, attended by more than 40 of the chief executives of the states of the Union, an outstanding governor of one of the largest states, who happened to be of a different political affiliation from the governor of North Carolina, asserted that if a poll were taken among the chief executives as to the one for whom the highest regard was entertained by all present, that choice would be the then Governor Broughton."

It was my privilege to be intimately associated with Governor Broughton during his primary campaign in 1940, the general election in the fall of that year, and as Executive Counsel during the General Assembly of 1941. These contacts, as well as many others, led me not only to have a warm, personal affection for him as a friend, but to admire and respect him for his ability, his statesmanship, and his comprehensive grasp of the problems and needs of the State.

The people of North Carolina take peculiar pride in the office of governor. They believe that when they elect a man to that office, they have given him the highest honor that is within their power to bestow. Therefore, they confidently expect of him the highest qualities of leadership and unreserved devotion to those principles and ideals which are for the best interest of the State and her people. When measured by these high standards of excellence, I respectfully submit that Joseph Melville Broughton merits the affection and gratitude of the people of North Carolina for his outstanding leadership and achievements during his term as governor of our beloved State; and that he earned for himself a high and honored place among that galaxy of distinguished North Carolinians, who have served this State so ably and effectively as chief executives in our day and generation.

STATEMENT BY MEMBER

Mr. Speaker:

This morning we have the unusual privilege of taking part in a program that means much to North Carolina. We have in the gallery and lobby today a delegation literally representing the state from Manteo to Murphy. Seven caravans converged here this morning from points across North Carolina to launch the observance of the Second Annual "See North Carolina Month" in May.

This annual May promotion is one of many sponsored by the Travel Council of North Carolina to call attention to the "Variety Vacationland" within our great state. The travel business reportedly added $350,000,000 to our state income last year. These good people are dedicated to making it still greater.

The Honorable Glenn Tucker, Mayor of Carolina Beach and a constituent of our Honorable Speaker, is the newly elected President of the Travel Council.

I am happy to note also among the visitors, Mr. Bob Page of Charlotte, Chairman of this promotion, and the lovely Miss Ramelle Lee Watterson, a native of Mecklenburg County, who has just been crowned "Miss Raleigh", and Miss Bonnie Fish as "Miss North Carolina Beach".

Mr. Speaker, I respectfully request that the courtesies of the gallery be extended to all these good promoters of our great state and that we extend to them our best wishes during the remainder of this statewide caravan.

On motion of Representative Jordan the rules are suspended and the resolution is placed on its immediate passage.

Passed first reading.

Rules suspended.

Passes its second and third readings and is ordered enrolled.

A JOINT RESOLUTION HONORING THE LIFE AND MEMORY OF BRANDON P. HODGES, FORMER MEMBER OF THE STATE SENATE, FORMER TREASURER OF NORTH CAROLINA, WHO SERVED HIS STATE WITH HONOR AND DISTINCTION.

On the evening of December 4, 1957, the Honorable Brandon P. Hodges, one time member of the Senate of North Carolina, died at his home in Asheville. While he had not been in the best of health for some time, his passing shocked the state and brought a sense of great sorrow and loss to all the people of North Carolina.

In a comparatively short time, he had lived a very rich and fruitful life of great benefit not only to the City of Asheville and the County of Buncombe, but to the commonwealth of North Carolina.

Brandon Hodges was born in Asheville, North Carolina, September 6, 1903. He was educated in the public schools of Asheville, Porter Military Academy, the University of North Carolina, and Wake Forest College. He was a member of the North Carolina Bar, acting as Judge Pro Tem of the Asheville Police Court. He rendered signal service in the refinancing of Buncombe County's obligations following the depression. However, perhaps his greatest public service began in the State Senate in 1943 and 1945; there he quickly assumed a position of leadership, being Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and serving afterwards as Chairman of the Advisory Budget Commission. He also acted as Legislative Counsel of Governor Cherry, and was elected Treasurer of the State of North Carolina on November 2, 1948, and was re-elected to that office on November 4, 1952. In addition, he served on many important commissions, and was Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Western Carolina Teachers' College, 1947-48.

Of recent memory is the distinguished service of Mr. Hodges as Chairman of the Tax Study Commission, the report of which was received with sympathetic interest by the General Assembly of 1947, which enacted many of its more important recommendations into law.

Brandon Hodges was fortunate in his family life. He was married to Miss Genevive Hare, and the happy domestic circle which supported him in his career was completed by a son and a daughter: Brandon P. Jr., and Sarah Jane. Throughout his public and private life, he was strengthened by the loyalty and affection of Mrs. Hodges and their children.

Brandon Hodges possessed a high order of intelligence and had the ability to master easily the complicated and complex problems of public finance. Yet he never considered taxation and a balanced budget as isolated matters, but always related them to the human purposes that they were to serve. Thus it is proper to say that he was one fiscal expert who never forgot the humanities.

When Mr. Hodges resigned as State Treasurer in 1953, he became connected with the Champion Paper and Fibre Company of Canton, North Carolina, and it was while he was associated with this very important and progressive industry that he served with such distinction as Chairman of the Tax Study Commission.

Brandon Hodges was in every sense of the word a statesman whose mind was characterized by breadth of vision. It can be truly said of him that his view of the forest was not lost in an examination of the trees, and that he could rise above heated disputes to take a lofty look at the scene of debate or conflict. After others had expressed sharply differing views, it was good to hear his dispassionate, calm summing up of the problem, and his tactful suggestions for a solution. He was a man who led others through the warmth of his personality and through the moral suasion of his voice. His mind was capacious, his integrity complete, his vision unobstructed by prejudice. He saw the state as a whole, and, above all, believed that industry, agriculture, and every other phase of our life were made significant and meaningful through the beneficent influence of education.

In appreciation of the life of Brandon Hodges, and the knowledge that North Carolina will miss his wisdom and his foresight, and that those of us who knew him so well will feel deeply the loss of a loyal and dependable friend, NOW, THEREFORE,
Be it resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring:

Section 1. That in the death of Brandon P. Hodges, the State of North Carolina and the citizens of Buncombe County have lost one of their most beloved and ablest citizens, whose record of public service constituted a magnificent contribution to the progress of the State and to the cause of good government.

Sec. 2. This resolution shall be incorporated in the permanent records of this General Assembly as a tribute and expression of respect to the memory of Brandon Hodges and that a copy be furnished to the members of his immediate family.

Sec. 3. This resolution shall be in full force and effect from and after its ratification.

We are brought together in this historic Capitol, in the tradition of our people, to add another portrait to the gallery of leaders who have carried North Carolina to preeminence. Here, tonight, gallant, rugged Kerr Scott takes his place in North Carolina's honored halls of grateful memory.

This painting of William Kerr Scott, done by Howard Chandler Christy, made possible by his co-workers and friends, and presented by his wife and family, will in the course of generations to come, be displayed in many different places.

It may be placed in the Agriculture Department where he gave zealous leadership for nearly a dozen years. It may spend some time in the Highway Building from whence sprang his road building miracles.

It may find its way, from time to time, in and out of the Chief Executive's office, a source of inspiration to yet other determined men.

But wherever this oil and canvas token of the man might be exhibited, the vigorous, resolute, confident, rolling spirit of Kerr Scott will well up in the pages of every recorded history of North Carolina's progress.

In the year 1904, a visitor to the Melville community in Alamance County wrote that he saw "his fine Jersey cows, his flock of sheep, his hogs, his chickens and his lands. On every hand are evidences of his thrift, industry, and good management. He has a little boy, about eight years of age, who milks every night and morning, a herd of 10 cows." The writer was reporting a visit with farm leader Robert W. Scott. On the yellowed page the part about the little boy is underlined, and in the margin the proud little boy had penciled his initials, "W. K. S."

Robert W. Scott, father of Kerr Scott, was more than a farm leader of his day; he was a farm missionary. He took worn-out land and made it productive. He was a pioneer of agricultural diversification. He was a lecturer for the Farmers Institute, forerunner of the Extension Service. He was the first and twenty-first president of the North Carolina Farmers' Convention. He was selected a "Master Farmer" in the first group ever to receive the award.

Five times in the North Carolina General Assembly, twice in the Senate, he was author of the act requiring the Commissioner of Agriculture and members of the Board to be practical farmers, and he put through authorization for the first agriculture building at State College. He was named to the State Board of Agriculture by Governor Charles Brantley Aycock, and re-named by Governors Glenn, Craig, Kitchen, Bickett, Morrison, McLean and Gardner.

Governor Aycock and Bob Scott were friends in the days of the Battle. Scott led the forces of universal education in Alamance County. Another engaged in this fight with Josephine Hughes, daughter of Professor Samuel Hughes, wife of Robert Scott, mother of Kerr Scott. She was quite a lady. Mother of eleven children, all of whom went to college, she ran the farm when Robert was lecturing and legislating. She favored public education because she didn't think it fair for her children to be taught by a private tutor, while other less fortunate children were without these opportunities. Though she died when she was only 49, her life was an abiding influence on her son, William Kerr.

Kerr Scott's chief hero was his father, but also Governor Aycock occupied a hero's role. Aycock once came visiting when young Kerr was ill with typhoid. Advised not to go into the sick room, the understanding and gentle Aycock nevertheless went in and shook hands with the sick little boy. Of such are a little boy's heroes made.

Kerr Scott never forgot that visit, but neither did he ever forget the dramatic all-night ringing of the bells when it was known that Governor Aycock's public school proposal had won out. Those were days of glory and splendor, the days of battles fought and won. It was great for a little boy to be alive.

To all little boys these days might not have been so vibrant. Older brother, Dr. Floyd Scott recounts that "Kerr was born with tremendous energy. He could do more work than any two men in the field—and he used his head. He arrived at practical solutions sooner than the rest of us." Governors, farm leaders, educators, politicians of all grades were attracted to the Bob Scott household at Melville, where they talked, argued, questioned and dreamed. Dr. Floyd remembers "Kerr would be sitting there listening, mouth and mind wide open. Kerr would be taking it all in, while the rest of us children probably would be fighting to see who got the best piece of chicken."

Scott enjoyed telling in later years how he was anxious to grow up, afraid that his father and his friends would solve all the problems that confronted their civilization, afraid that by the time he became grown there would be no problems left to face.

Some forty years later, public education and good roads were the foundation of a Governor's platform. Said a Hawfields neighbor at the time, "Of course it's Kerr's program, but it is also the program his daddy worked for all his life—this thing of better roads and better schools."

In 1948, when Kerr Scott was engaged in the campaign leading to his election as Governor of North Carolina, he received from Rockingham, a letter, handwritten and beautiful in the graceful manner of an elderly and gentle and remembering lady.

"My dear Mr. Scott," it began.

"Many years ago a group of young people were sitting on the steps of a boarding house in Chapel Hill (Hogan's). There was Ed Scott and Robert Scott, Robert Hughes, "June" Kerr, my brother, Alex Phillips, Lizzie Kerr and myself. We were talking about what we wanted to be.

"Your father was a shy youngster and was the last to say that he wanted to build in North Carolina a monument that would forever make his name remembered and honored in the State. The rest of us, mistaking his meaning, whooped with scorn, what good would a marble monument do anybody, the idea of spending a life merely to put up a monument. He blushed and stammered and before he could explain his meaning the supper bell rang, Alex, Lizzie and I ran across the street to our own home, the others went in to the evening meal and now you are building the "Monument" your father planned so long ago and I am helping you in an old woman's futile way. . . ."

The letter continues:

"I am watching your career with deep interest because I know that the future of humanity rests on the agricultural progress of the world. Even the great scientists have to be fed and clothed.

"With all good wishes

"Your hereditary friend
"Lucy Phillips Russell"

"And now you are building the 'Monument' your father planned so long ago..."

And what a monument.

—Almost 15,000 miles of highways and secondary roads paved, bringing new life, confidence and pride to rural areas, and generating industrial expansion of North Carolina by linking the industrial plant and the rural home, as many miles as had already been paved in all the history of North Carolina, adding a new colloquialism, "Scott road," for the unnumbered but paved rural road.

—31,000 additional rural telephone and 150,000 additional rural electric service connections.

—A public school building program which provided 8,000 new classrooms, many additional lunch rooms and recreational facilities.

—Over 330 million dollars worth of permanent improvements at the institutions of higher learning and in construction of mental, tubercular, spastic, orthopedic, and community hospitals.

—Agricultural programs and advances unprecedented.

—A far-sighted program for development and conservation of water resources.

—Fruition of the 100-year-old dream for deep water shipping outlets with the construction of modern port facilities at Morehead City and Wilmington.

—A gain of 398 new industrial plants, providing employment for an estimated 39,000.

Kerr Scott would not have regarded these accomplishments as a monument. He recognized he was carrying on progress begun by others, that his own program was possible only because of his co-workers, and that all accomplishments would become meaningless if the people of North Carolina should ever lose their vitality in the future.

From personal experience Kerr Scott knew the problems and the hopes and dreams of rural North Carolina. These hopes and dreams became the "Go Forward" program. He had a strong conviction that these things he worked for, out of his rural experience, would benefit all of North Carolina. Time and again he made the point that the rural road building, for example, would mean more to the industrial development of the State than even to the rural residents of the State. He probably would have developed and carried on the "Go Forward" program even if these things would have benefitted only part of the population, but he never needed to make such a hard decision. He was convinced absolutely that his program would benefit everybody, would draw town and country closer together, would preserve the farm and rural life and a balance between rural and urban living which he considered a great and wholesome benefit to the moral, political, and economic health of the State.

William Kerr Scott, "The Squire of Haw River", as he was pleased to be called, needs no eulogy from me. Neither have I attempted biography. Rather I have hoped to touch upon some of the facets of his character which might illuminate the impact of this public life upon the economy and well-being of North Carolina and her four million citizens.

On January 4, 1951, Governor Scott, in delivering his message to the General Assembly, indicated his creed.

"I believe that the proper objective of our country is preservation of freedom under God, and that our State must be ready to support this objective at all costs. * * *

"I believe that we must start at home when we want to build a better world. . . .

"I believe in the high quality of the natural value of our State; that both people and material resources are worthy of great investment."

W. Kerr Scott was a fighter for the things in which he believed. I am reminded of a tense moment during the battle to win legislative approval of the two hundred million dollar road bond program. Several of the Governor's advisers came to him and reported that the opposition—mainly composed of those who opposed the tax feature of the program—could be won over if he would reduce the amount to one hundred million dollars.

There was hardly any discussion.

"No," drawled the Governor, "they'll oppose that too, just as soon as they get us to cut down. We need it all. Let's keep on fighting."

Kerr Scott enjoyed life. When he was campaigning he made the mistake of calling on a weekly newspaperman on press day. Monkey wrench in hand, greasy, from under his balky press, the irritated newsman asked, "What makes you think you ought to be Governor?"

"Well," said Scott, "I can tie a hamestring and thread a binder."

Apparently that answered the question. The newspaper supported Scott. Scott was stern and stubborn and unyielding—a fighter who asked and gave no quarter—but this was only part of him. He was also gentle, kind, and sentimental. His talk on flowers in the Senate Chapel, to the Senators constituting the weekly prayer group, was reprinted and distributed by dozens of United States Senators.

"What boy, raised in the country," he said, "has not sought out in the early spring on sunny hillsides delicate, pale, dancing forget-me-nots to shyly lay a tight little bouquet in his mother's lap? . . ."

He was a devoted husband and father. There was always a softness in his voice when he spoke of "Miss Mary", the gentle little girl in his grammar school days who later became his bride, the mother of their three children, and his confidante and adviser in all important matters throughout his career.

He and Mrs. Scott built their house together not long after they were married, and although they had to wait a while for enough furniture, they made it a warm, friendly and loving home. Kerr Scott had become the County Farm Agent. Mrs. Scott recalls these days as happy times.

"The Jersey herd was growing and Kerr was rising at 5:00 A. M. to help milk, taking the milk to market in his pick-up truck as he went to his office. His first desk was a nail keg, his office in the basement of the old Courthouse in Graham, and there he worked those first years without a stenographer or assistant. He took his home-packed lunch with him and most of the time returned home only after the regularly scheduled night meetings. Any time off the job was spent in pushing some special project at the farm. This continued all his life. For years I marvelled at his strength and energy until it became a habit to think that there was no limit to his endurance. He had a love for the land that was such a vital part of him. It matched his love for public service and he poured his whole life into these with vigor that few people ever possess."

W. Kerr Scott left his imprint on North Carolina, but "Miss Mary" helped mightily in moulding the "Squire" into the public servant he became.

In talking about Kerr Scott, how can we avoid talking a little about his so-called "roughness"? After all, this was without question the surface side of him that was the distinguishing feature for the public. Depending upon how you felt about him, and what he stood for, you felt differently about this side of his nature.

If you were one of those who were just naturally afraid of what the man was liable to do to the status quo, you called him "wild-man", and raised vague whisperings about what he was going to do to destroy the State. And of course it got a little rougher than that, even to the point that at one time a State newspaper pointed out editorially the obvious fact that by birth, breeding, raising, education and moral character he was the peer of any of the gentlemen so openly and vehemently worried about his alleged lack of refinement.

But if you were one of those who trusted his basic instincts and motivations, this side of him was to you the same good rough-hewness that has always characterized the democratic leaders from agrarian back-grounds; a refreshing down-to-earthness that brought welcome relief from sometimes overmuch silkiness and subtlety in high places; a necessary corollary to the ability to get things done now in the maze of conflicting pressures and interests which characterize public service.

Well, he was rough—and tough; a rough, tough gentleman. In many ways rough and tough just like old Andy Jackson; and yes, like the Illinois rail-splitter; and in later times, like a pretty fair political battler from Missouri. And history will say of him as it is already saying of them, long after the fleeting barbs of outraged gentility are lost in limbo, that he got things done; and will characterize that ingredient of his character which we at close hand, friend and foe alike, have called "roughness", in terms, rather, of strength, vision, perseverance, indomitable will, and just plain courage.

No man, no matter how strong, can long withstand the buffeting of life, and especially political life, without the extra strength of spiritual peace of mind, and "The Squire of Haw River" possessed an inner strength which carried him above the petty quibbling of the day, above the vicious criticism of political foes, above the doubting timidity of political friends, onward toward his determined, if not always serene, path to achievement. Kerr Scott was always a deeply religious man.

The symbol of inner strength which he had made his own is found in his favorite hymn sung at his funeral: "I come to the garden alone, while the dew is still on the roses. . ."

Those who knew the Governor well can visualize this companionship as he fell out early in the morning to walk about his farm pastures, as he walked the clay road to Brother Ralph's and then to his beloved Hawfields Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning, or as he walked almost daily the five miles from his apartment to his Washington office. And they can imagine Kerr Scott talking over his troubles of the moment, finding consolation, encouragement and comfort in the knowledge that "He walks with me, and He talks with me, and He tells me I am His own. . ."

The life of W. Kerr Scott, farmer, Governor, United States Senator, exemplified the motto: To be rather than to seem. His spirit and inspiration, deeply etched across our State, will forever go forward, enriching the great heritage of North Carolina.

It is completely appropriate that this memorial to his service as Governor of North Carolina should be presented formally by his true friend, his loyal associate, his co-worker in the field of going forward, builder of highways, former Chairman and tireless leader of the Highway Commission, Dr. Henry W. Jordan.

Presentation of Portrait.....Dr. Henry Jordan
Cedar Falls, North Carolina

In the passage of time, it seems that most of us come to recognize the value of true friendship.

For friendship, when analyzed, can be many things to us. It can be the nourishment that we need when there may come that feeling that all is not well. It may be the tonic for our souls in despair. It may be, in reality, the foundation of happiness when we are strained and pushed and thrown into depression through some reversal which may overtake us.

But what is friendship?

We have to look only here tonight to find at least one part of it.

For assembled here are many people who were friends of W. Kerr Scott. We are proud to identify ourselves in such a way, for in doing so we, in our hearts, know of our devotion and our dedication to that noble and honorable and sincere association.

But friendship can go beyond the individual. It can unite like flames whipping around a massive fire and can cast off a huge glow.

No better example can be found than in the collective friendship which was shown to our departed friend and leader, W. Kerr Scott. When he sought out his friend, whomever he might have been and wherever he might have lived, that friend was ready to heed his call. When he called upon his collective friends in all walks of life and in all levels of our society, they would unite and join with him.

He literally could move mountains, this man of the soil, and could sincerely move the hearts of those close to him to a complete devotion to him and to his cause.

It was friends who joined together to provide this Portrait which we have here tonight for presentation to our great state. They were friends who worked for the State and friends who came from many places. They joined their interest and their means to provide the funds for it to be transpired from canvas into what is now a living memorial.

And while I know that these friends don't want to find expression of appreciation for what they did, the family of W. Kerr Scott nevertheless is grateful for this kindness, for this tribute, and for the meaning and respect which it represents.

And well it could be that through this Portrait this closeness that was felt for so long by so many friends will be preserved.

Those things which are so worthwhile to life, we are told, should never be kept isolated. They should be shared.

And it would seem right, then, that the friendship that was shown to our departed leader in such an outward and convincing and strong way during his life, now takes on a new meaning. It has moved from the respected level of the people directly involved and now becomes an official part of our State's possessions, where it shall live for as long as North Carolina lives.

It is with this thought then, that I am privileged to present this Portrait to our State.

It is a combination of canvas and color in the creation of an image.

It also is a combination of hearts of many people in the expression of a love—for a man, for his friendship, for his leadership, and for what he meant to us all.

ARMED FORCES DAY

16 May 1959

ARMED FORCES DAY has been proclaimed by President Dwight D. Eisenhower to emphasize and enhance the trust and understanding which must exist between members of our Armed Forces and those other Americans and free world friends with whom we stand for peace and progress.

The strength of a free nation, and its will to endure, derive not only from the capability and readiness of its Armed Forces, but also from the understanding and support of all its people.

Assisted by national, State and local civil authorities and organizations, every effort will, and has been made, to increase public understanding of the role of our Armed Forces as a defensive shield serving in Partnership with friends around the world.

Our Armed Forces and our national defense system represent a judicious investment of the nation's resources in the cause of peace. The return on this investment, in terms of national strength, shows the determination of the American people to preserve our way of life and to give hope to all who seek peace with freedom and justice.

ARMED FORCES DAY 1959 provides an opportunity for our people to demonstrate their belief in the constructive "POWER FOR PEACE"—to which the Armed Forces of the United States are totally committed.

On motion of Representative Delamar the House adjourns in memory, appreciation and respect to those men and women through the years who have contributed to maintaining that defensive shield that has protected, made more lasting our cherished democratic way of life and particularly those who have made the supreme sacrifice for this cause and will meet Monday night at 8:00 o'clock P. STATEMENT BY MEMBER

The Attorney General of North Carolina ruled on the 8th of January, 1959, that in his opinion it was illegal for a municipal employee to join a labor or trade union and the State and all of the political subdivisions thereof have the power and authority to prohibit such activity when it is, in their opinion, detrimental to good government, safety and general welfare of the body politic concerned. It is my opinion that it should be a felony for either the police or firemen or anyone employed to protect the public safety and general welfare including health to strike against the public. It is my opinion based on the ruling of the Attorney General that this bill, as written, does not answer the problem and could deprive many of our firemen insurance rights accumulated over a thirty year period; therefore, I must be recorded as voting "No".

STATEMENT BY MEMBER

I desire to exercise the right extended to me under the Constitution of North Carolina to protest against and dissent from the passage of House Bills No. 374 and No. 372.

As finally passed, a great many counties were excluded from the operation of the bills. It was my wish to send forward an amendment excluding Guilford County from the operation of the bills. However, a majority of the Guilford County delegation did not favor such action and the amendment was therefore not offered.

I oppose H. B. 374 because I do not feel that the County Commissioners should have the power to zone real estate lying outside the limits of a town or city. Moreover, the powers granted to the commissioners by this bill, in my opinion, are far too extensive and endanger the right of the people of Guilford County to make such use of their property as they choose.

The bill seems to me to be both unnecessary and to endanger long guaranteed fundamental rights with respect to property. I dissent therefrom.

STATEMENT BY MEMBER

With respect to my vote on H. B. 1025, permitting an ABC referendum in Gibsonville, I want to explain that I did not join in the introduction of the bill; and because of the objection by the Representative from Alamance County, in which part of the town lies, and certain questions about control and law enforcement and other features of the bill, I would vote against the bill if I were the sole representative from Guilford County; however, the majority of my delegation has decided to support this bill and since it is primarily a local bill involving a local issue in Guilford County, I feel it would be wrong and improper to insist on my views and openly oppose the rest of the delegation on a local matter and thereby seek to override majority rule in my delegation; consequently, I vote "I" on the third reading.

STATEMENT WITH REFERENCE TO H. B. 1024 (CITY CHARTER OF GREENSBORO)

I shall not vote for the new City Charter, but I shall not oppose it as the other members of the Guilford Delegation desire it. It has been the custom to abide by the result of a caucus of the delegation. It is a necessary custom which I would not disturb.

A number of amendments to the proposed charter have been offered by me and accepted. These amendments serve to mitigate the hardships of condemnation proceedings and protect minors and others under disabilities in presenting claims against the city as well as preserving the principle of open meetings.

The Legislature has been in session since February 4, 1959. This charter, consisting of over one hundred pages of typewritten matter, was first given to members of the delegation in May at the busiest time of the Session—when they were greatly concerned with revenue and appropriation matters. The entire matter has been insufficiently considered, one member of the delegation stating that he had not read the document.

I cannot understand why the document only appeared in May. I defer to the decision of the caucus, but I cannot vote for the fundamental law of the city without an opportunity for proper consideration and reflection.

STATEMENT BY MEMBERS

It is our wish to record our opposition to and dissent from H. B. No. 12, being the amendment to the permanent Revenue Bill. Our reasons are as follows:

1. The system of withholding tax set up in effect compels a taxpayer to pay two years' income tax in one year. The withholding tax system becomes effective January 1, 1960; from this date an employee's wages will be withheld, according to tables to be set up by the Revenue Department, for application on 1960 State income taxes; on April 15, 1960 the taxpayer will be called upon to file a return and pay his income taxes for the year 1959. When the Federal Government instituted this system of tax collection, the taxpayers were forgiven three quarters of one year's taxes in order to place the system upon a current basis, and within the last few months, the State of New York, in instituting the system, forgave the taxpayers an entire year's taxes. I cannot analyze this Bill other than a method to exact two years' taxes in one year.

2. The withholding tax system, as applied, is discriminatory. It does not apply to large segments of the population and corporations are excluded altogether with the exception of those corporations paying more than $100 thousand income tax in a year. To my mind, this is one of the worse features of the Bill. The proponent of the amendment imposing withholding upon the forty-one corporations paying $100 thousand State income tax, frankly stated—"It will enable us to explain our position to our constituents". In short, it was a political face-saving device and not an equitable tax procedure. The people of North Carolina are not fools and they will not be deceived by such a transparent device, which purports to include corporations in a general withholding tax scheme, but in reality excludes all except forty-one of the twenty thousand corporations in North Carolina.

3. By the method of collecting two years' taxes in one year, a so-called "windfall" in the amount of $27½ million results. This "windfall" is used to balance the Budget. Bearing in mind that for the next biennium the Revenue Bill is estimated to raise $47 million more than it produced in this biennium, it is apparent that the Revenue Bill for the biennium

1961-63 must produce $74½ million more than the Revenue Bill is producing for the present biennium, or the State will be faced with a ready made deficit of $27½ million—the amount of the so-called “windfall”.

It seems to us that this procedure represents an avoidance by the General Assembly of its duty to balance the Budget and a resort to a species of sham and trickery. We do not approve of it, and we do not think that the people will approve of it. Without essaying the role of a prophet, we apprehend that any slight decline in business conditions will place the Budget in a serious situation and that anything more than a slight decline may bring about a very grave situation. The whole idea in the use of a so-called “windfall” to balance the Budget is based upon the expectation of a continued inflationary spiral in our economy.

Moreover, the Budget as finally adopted not only evades the responsibility of the General Assembly in the matter of raising revenue, but the appropriations represent a “hold the line”, “stand pat” philosophy which denies adequate relief to the unfortunate and almost shuts the door of opportunity to the children of the State.

We dissent from the Bill.
